JAPAN REBELS SURRENDER TO LOYAL TROOPS

LEADERS OF BLOODY UPRISING STILL BARRICADED

Los Angeles, Feb. 28 (AP)—A Domei (Japanese) Press Agency wireless dispatch to the Rafu Shimpo (Los Angeles Japanese Daily News) said tonight that evacuation of all enlisted men and non-commissioned officers from government buildings was completed at 11:30 a. m. February 29 (Tokyo time).

Four captains and one lieutenant, leaders of the uprising, however, were reported as having barricaded themselves in the official residence of the late Premier Okado.

The surrender of the rebels, officially termed in an order issued by the martial law administration as "action troops" took place after airplanes had flown over the buildings and dropped handbills on the beseiged places.

These handbills termed the troops and officers taking part in the coup as "traitors," the correspondent reported. This was because they had defied Emperor Hirohito to evacuate the buildings by 8 a. m. February 28.

The martial law administration gave as a reason for not initiating action earlier that it would have been necessary to fire upon the Imperial Palace grounds, and also the firing would have endangered the American embassy.

Tokyo, Feb. 29 (Saturday)—Loyal government troops were expected to proceed today against the defiant fellow soldiers, authors of Wednesday's "purge" who are entrenched in the heart of Tokyo.

Government soldiers, about 4,000, were thrown in a ring around the rebels, who held the Nagatacho section, containing government buildings and not far from the Imperial Palace.

"Appropriate measures" to deal with the insurgents were announced last night by Lieut.-Gen. Kohei Kashii, whom the government designated to put down the military revolt with the aid of martial law.

In a proclamation by radio, the officer said:

"The several hundred soldiers who started the disturbances early Wednesday morning are still holding the Nagatacho section of Tokyo but the commander of martial law administration is taking appropriate measures to deal with them.

Tokyo Is Calm

"The troops under the commander of martial law are acting under orders from the emperor; their discipline is strict and their morale excellent.

"Tokyo city, except for the Nagatacho section, is perfectly calm while peace and order prevails throughout the country."

(Unofficial advices reaching Japanese circles in Shanghai said Emperor Hirohito had given Gen. Kashii authority to expel the rebels by whatever means are necessary.

(A Reuters dispatch from Shanghai said private advices from Chinese sources declared troops had revolted at Osaka, industrial center, but Japanese authorities in Shanghai vehemently denied this report.)

The rebels have held their position since Wednesday. On the dawn of that day they assassinat-

It's Leap Year Day So Hide, Bachelors

Chicago, Feb. 28 (AP)—Eligible bachelors took to cover tonight as the calendar's gift to maids, "Leap Year," February 29, neared.

They were to be fair game tomorrow in Aurora, Ill., where a half hundred pretty, unmarried girls will rule the town in a high spot of "feminine freedom" granted in many other communities also in commemoration of the quadrennial incidence of "Leap Year Day."

Not far away in Joliet, Ill., housewives and clubwomen will assume the reins of municipal government for 24 hours.

Aurora's Chief of Police-to-Be Helen Thompson, 21, had a "public enemy" list of bachelors her feminine bluecoats will seek to round up. A proposed penalty was immediate marriage with possible "fines" of a silk dress to disappointed suitoresses.

MRS. HEWITT IS UNDER ARREST

Found in Jersey City; Held for Suicide Attempt

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, sought on a mayhem warrant issued by San Francisco police on charges brought by her daughter, was found by police tonight in the psychopathic ward of the medical center, where she was under treatment following what police described as a suicide attempt on February 21.

Deputy Police Chief Charles Wilson said he was permitted to speak briefly with the woman who admitted her identity.

Police immediately lodged a charge of attempted suicide against her.

Mrs. Hewitt has been sought for several weeks to appear in San Francisco on charges brought by her daughter, Anne Cooper Hewitt, heiress to the Peter Cooper millions, that the mother and two physicians conspired to perform a sterilization operation on her.

Found Unconscious

Wilson said Mrs. Hewitt registered at a Journal Square hotel (Plaza) on February 9 as Mrs. Jane Merritt of Boston. She advised hotel authorities she was suffering from a nervous ailment and did not wish to be disturbed.

A maid found the woman unconscious on her bed shortly after midnight on February 21. She summoned a medical center ambulance. Physicians said she had taken an overdose of a sedative she had been taking for her nerves.

Wilson said that this afternoon he received a telephone call at his home from an unidentified man, who told him that the woman in the hospital under the name of Mrs. Jane Merritt was Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt.

The deputy chief said he checked the information immediately and convinced himself that the anonymous informant had told the truth.

He said the woman was in critical condition when first taken to the hospital but has since recovered slightly but not enough to permit questioning.

He indicated he would get in touch with San Francisco authorities, who have sought Mrs. Hewitt to serve on her an extradition warrant for her removal to that city to face charges brought against her by her daughter.

President To Sign Neutrality Measure

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today that before tomorrow midnight he would sign the new neutrality law designed to keep the nation at peace despite foreign wars.

A proclamation declaring continuation of United States' neutrality in the Italian-Ethiopian war was expected to accompany the signing.

The bill extends the present neutrality law expiration from Feb. 29 to May 1, 1937. It would on shipment of arms and munitions to belligerents and, in addition, embargo loans to belligerents.

Further, it would make the law apply to all nations entering a war, instead of just the first participants as provided in the present law. It would exempt the American republics when at war with non-American nations but not when allied with non-American nations in a war aaginst another nation.

BLANK BEGINS HIS SENTENCE IN STATE 'PEN'

KILLER ASSERTS HE DID NOT SLEEP AT NIGHT

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 28. (AP)—In the isolation of a detention cell, George Blank began serving a life sentence today for the torch slaying of his young wife, a crime described by the sentencing judge as "the most atrocious that has come to my attention."

Sixteen hours after the 24-year-old Gratiot county farmer and Sunday School superintendent pleaded guilty at a night session of circuit court in Ithaca, he exchanged his identity for No. 38299 at the state prison of southern Michigan this afternoon.

A tearful farewell visit from his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Blank, and his former sweetheart, Miss Ada Reist, preceded his departure from the Gratiot county jail for the prison, in custody of Sheriff William Nestle and two deputies. Miss Reist's mother, Mrs. John Reist, of Maple Rapids, accompanied the young Grand Rapids commercial college student.

Miss Reist took with her a package of books as a gift for Blank, but Sheriff Nestle advised her to deliver them at the prison later.

Mrs. Robert Blank, who had lavished the affection of a mother on her foster son, sat with one arm around his shoulders during the hour she was permitted to be with him in an ante-room of the jail at Ithaca. She was near collapse as she left. Her husband's face was drawn and deeply lined. Sheriff Nestle said there was little conversation.

Denies Marriage Proposal

After the young farmer had begun his prison-bound journey, Ray Naegel, 47, and John Lennox, 46, inmates of the Gratiot county jail, said that Blank had discussed with them the night before the question of whether Sheriff Nestle would permit him to marry Miss Reist before he entered prison.

Miss Reist quickly and indignantly denied that such a proposal ever was made to her. She said the story was "ridiculous on its face," that "I never discussed such a thing with George or anyone else," and that "those men must be publicity seekers."

Blank, who had exhibited no indications of remorse during his confession that he became enraged because his wife "kept nagging about money" for her approaching confinement, struck her with his fist, chloroformed her, and then set fire to her body, said he had been unable to sleep during the night.

Ruefully, he predicted that

Fitzgerald Warns Against Spending

Battle Creek, Feb. 28 (AP)—Governor Fitzgerald warned against governmental extravagance and fantastic economic plans in an address before the young people's council here tonight.

"Some of us are prone to embrace fantastic schemes that promise to transform our troubled world into a land of milk and money overnight," he said. "Often they fail to analyze the schemes to see whether they are workable. Many people bewildered by economic conditions of the past few years are easy prey for false prophets promising a plus lined existence without effort.

"We know a government cannot spend more than it collects indefinitely, without going into bankruptcy."

Bennett Asserts Canada Made Bad Bargain On Trade

Ottawa, Feb. 28 (AP)—Former Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, conservative leader in parliament, told the house of comomns today that Canada made a bad bargain in the trade treaty with the United States.

"We oppose the treaty," he said, "because it sacrifices Canada, because it is detrimental to the interests of this Dominion, because it gives everything we have and gets little in return."

Bennett declared the treaty would bring ruin to many Canadain industries unless the intermediate tariff is raised on a large number of items.

Local Woman Killed in Auto Wreck

Mrs. Doucet is Crash Victim; Husband Hurt

Mrs. Mary Doucet, 32, was killed when a car in which she was riding struck a culvert curb on the Ford River road, about a quarter mile south of the Escanaba Athletic Field, last evening. The accident occurred at about 11 o'clock

Mrs. Doucet was riding with her husband, Art Doucet, at the time of the mishap and the couple was headed for their home on the Ford River Road. Doucet was driving and he later told local police who investigated the tragedy that the car slipped on the icy road and crashed into the culvert curb.

Mrs. Doucet suffered a broken neck and died enroute to the hospital. Her husband had several teeth knocked out and received bad cuts and bruises about the body and face. His condition, however, is not serious.

The accident victims were taken to the local hospital by Arvid Magnusson who drove by the scene of the crash shortly after it had occurred.

The car was badly wrecked.

Mrs. Doucet was born at Perronville, Sept. 2, 1903. She later moved to Escanaba with her parents and attended St. Anne's school here. She was married to Arthur Doucet 17 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, two children, Jeanette, 15, and John, 4; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Chartrand; three brothers, Arthur, Wilferd, Isadore, Jr.; and a sister, Mrs. Harold Weber.

The body was taken to the Boyce funeral home to be prepared for burial.

SCHWARZKOPF TO BE OUSTED?

Hint Governor Hoffman Will Not Reappoint Police Head

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 28. (AP)—An authoritative source disclosed tonight that men representing themselves as agents of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, have been secretly questioning state troopers who were active in investigating the Lindbergh kidnap-murder, of which Bruno Richard Hauptmann was convicted.

Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of the state police superintendent of the state police, the source said, reported the alleged undercover activities to the governor today in the fourth of his weekly reports on the reopened investigation of the case.

The agents were reported by the source to have told several members of the state police force they would be protected in their positions in the event that Schwarzkopf is not reappointed. His term expires in June, and reports have been current for several months that Hoffman does not intend to rename him.

Various farm and civic groups in the state have taken cognizance of these reports and have voted confidence in Schwarzkopf and adopted resolutions urging his reappointment.

Schwarzkopf had no comment to make on his latest report to the governor, and the governor's office said it had not been opened. The office said it will be forwarded to the governor at his South Amboy home, and would not reach there until tomorrow.

Chicago Woman Leaps To Death

Detroit, Feb. 28 (AP)—A woman who police said was identified as Mrs. Marie B. Johnson, Chicago, leaped from the sixth floor window of her room in a downtown hotel tonight. She died in an ambulance.

Police said the door of the hotel room was open and a note was found on a table addressed to her husband, Edwin C. Johnson, Jr., executive of a Chicago automotive parts concern. Johnson, attending at dinner at the University club, was summoned to Receiving hospital where he identified his wife. He said he could not account for her act.

RAILROADS OF NATION TO CUT TRAVEL RATES

PASSENGER COACH FARES WILL BE 2c A MILE

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission, in a 5 to 4 decision, today ordered a nation-wide reduction of railroad passenger coach fares to two cents a mile, with Pullman fare cut to three cents.

A majority opinion of the divided commission asserted the move was necessary to meet the challenge of cheap highway transportation.

The orders, effective June 2, brings the rates down from the existing 3.6 cent basic coach rate and the average of 4 cents for Pullmans, including surcharges. The surcharges were eliminated by today's order. Southern and western roads already have established experimental passenger fares as low as or lower than those fixed today by the commission.

Reduce Revenues

Eastern roads, however, have fought reductions—with the exception of the Baltimore and Ohio. The eastern carriers contended that a fare cut would shear $56,500,000 from their annual revenues.

So-called extra fare trains were not involved in the ICC order.

Written by Commissioner Claude R. Porter, who initiated the fare investigation almost two years ago, the 72-page majority opinion was supported by Commissioners W. M. W. Splawn, Clyde B. Aitcheson, Carroll Miller, and Marion M. Caskie.

Chairman Charles D. Mahaffie and Commissioners B. H. Meyer, Frank McManamy, and William E. Lee dissented, while Commissioner Hugh M. Tate did not participate in the proceeding.

In his dissenting opinion, Meyer expressed the view that the new rates would not be low enough "to recover a large volume of business from private automobiles."

Mahaffie said the reduced fares would not bring maximum possible reveue to the roads.

McManamy declared the ICC had no legal authority to order the cuts, and Lee branded the ruling an invasion of "the field of management."

REGENTS RAISE TUITION COSTS

Special Students Fees at University Cut Out, However

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 28 (AP)—The University of Michigan board of regents, meeting today at the home of President Alexander Grant Ruthven, voted to eliminate special student fees, effective with the fall term, and increase tuition to compensate for the loss in revenue.

It was the first meeting of the board since President Ruthven fell on ice at his home New Year's Day and suffered a leg fracture.

The greatest tuition increase for any group will be that of the law students, who will pay $100 a semester instead of $72. Resident law students' tuition will be increased from $62 to $70.

The majority of students, enrolled in colleges of literature, science and arts, business administration, forestry, music, the graduate school and the school of education, will pay $55 instead of $50 if they are residents and $75 instead of $62 if non-residents.

Resident engineering, pharmacy and architecture students received an increase from $57 to $60, non-residents $70 to $80, with the general laboratory fee discontinued. In the school of dentistry the resident tuition was reduced from $113 to $110, while the $150 fee for non-residents was unchanged.

The board reecived a gift of $7,500 from Charles Baird, Michigan alumnus, bringing the total of his gifts to the Baird Memorial Carillon and the Burton Tower, which will house it, to $77,500. Ann Arbor alumni are raising $25,000 in connection with the project.

Shirley W. Smith, vice-president and secretary of the university, explained that the tuition increases were to eliminate special fees.

Advises Democrats To Nominate Ford

Boston, Feb. 28 (AP)—Gleason L. Archer, dean of the Suffolk law school, in a letter today to Chairman Joseph McGrath, of the Democratic state committee, urged the Democratic party to draft Henry Ford as its presidential candidate.

Replying to an invitation to join a committee of one hundred to support the coming campaign, Dean Archer, an enrolled Democrat, said he was unwilling to aid in the re-election of President. The letter read in part.

"President Roosevelt has repudiated the platform and policies of his party. . . . He has surrounded himself with utopian dreamers and crack-brained economists.

"Let us draft a truly great Democrat like Henry Ford of Michigan and make him president of the United States. The greatest industrialist of the age, Henry Ford understands the problem of industry and its relation to sound government. He can do much to restore prosperity and sanity in the United States."

Today Is Last Day For 1935 Licenses

Lansing, Feb. 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Orville E. Atwood warned today that motorists must have 1936 automobile licenses by Saturday night. Atwood declined to request local peace officers to be lenient. It was estimated more than 500,000 automobile owners have not obtained new plates or half year stickers.

Atwood ordered all branch offices at the department of state to remain open Saturday night "as long as there is an applicant in line." He issued a statement saying he would extend the time for the use of 1935 plates if he could under the law, because thousands of motorists may be deprived of their cars.

Atwood plans to recommend to the next legislature that the automobile license "year" start May 1 instead of January 1. He believes owners would be better able to buy licenses if the date was moved away from the holiday and winter tax season.

HEIRESS IS ILL, HAS OPERATION

Condition of Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow Very Serious

London, Feb. 28 (AP)—Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, the former Barbara Hutton who became a mother four days ago, was understood tonight to be gravely ill. She was operated upon last night.

The king's physician visited her three times today, remaining for an hour on each occasion. At 9 o'clock tonight he returned, accompanied by his three colleagues. A fourth doctor was already there.

Jimmy Donahue, cousin of the countess, emerged from the house at 11 p. m. and said: "I am afraid it is very serious. That is all I can say now." By that time all the doctors had departed.

It became known only today that the countess underwent an operation last night, performed to relieve abdominal symptons of an obstructive nature.

Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, Danish nobleman who wed the 23-year-old American last May in Reno, was at the bedside at intervals during the day and night.

He said that the abdominal symptons developed only yesterday and that the operation followed shortly.

The countess was in the huge regency house facing Hyde Park where she gave birth Tuesday to a 7½ pound son. The baby was reported to be thriving.

Load Restrictions Will Be Enforced

Lansing, Feb. 28 (AP)—The state highway department prepared today to enforce loading restrictions on commercial vehicles between the southern state boundary and M-21 beginning Monday.

The restrictions reduce the size of loads by 25 percent and are invoked to protect highways weakened by the spring thaws. Weighmasters from the highway department are charged with their enforcement.

REAL BATTLE IS PREDICTED IN CONGRESS

BIG REVENUE BILL IS NOT DESIRED THIS YEAR

BY RICHARD L. TURNER

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—A billion dollar tax program, drafted for speedy enactment by President Roosevelt, tonight encountered an emphatic protest in powerful sectors of congress.

From these sources came immediate statements ranging from predictions that the legislation would run into an historic battle to assertions that in the end the president will get less than half that amount.

Briefly, the chief executive, outlining his plans to newspapermen, called for such an increase in the federal revenues as would offset the loss of the invalidated processing taxes and the cost of paying the bonus.

He proposed:

A "new" tax, intended to yield $120,000,000 annually, to be effective nine years, amortizing the cost of the bonus in that time.

Doughton Opposes

A "substitute" tax to replace the processing taxes and finance future farm benefit payments, intended to produce $500,000,000 annually.

"Reimbursement" taxes, to make up for the losses in processing taxes during the current year, producing a sum total of $500,000,000 over a period of one to three years and then expiring.

A "windfall" tax, included in the last item, intended to recapture processing tax payments which were impounded by the courts and then returned to the processors, to yield $150,000,000.

Endeavoring to put these items into the more usual tax parlance of increased yield per fiscal year, more than one observer concluded that under the president's program the bill for next year would be some $735,000,000 if the "reimbursement" taxes are spread over the full three year period.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee which will draft the bill was quick to predict that the ultimate measure would fall far short of the president's requests. He has warned repeatedly that a big tax bill is bad politics in a campaign year.

Republicans were inclined to be derisive.

Rep. Snell of New York, the minority leader, was "glad the president has come to some conclusion, anyway." He said he regarded taxes as preferable to printing press money or defaulting on government obligations.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), an opponent of new deal spending, suggested "it ought to be easier to stop the Passamaquoddy, the Florida ship canal and other indefensible expenditures now that a fiscal crisis is suddenly and belatedly discovered."

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt outlined at a press conference a tax program designed to raise $120,000,000 annually for nine years to amortize the bonus payment, $500,000,000 annually for the farm subsidies, and about $500,000,000 as reimbursement for invalidated processing taxes.

The soil conservation-farm subsidy bill went to the White House for presidential approval bearing the signatures of Speaker Byrns and Vice-President Garner.

The house passed the $161,863,147 agricultural appropriations bill and sent it to the senate.

President Roosevelt issued an executive order allocating $7,000,000 to the farm credit administration for financing seed loans.

The interstate commerce commission ordered substantial reductions in railroad passenger fares effective June 2.

The president indicated he would sign the new neutrality bill, extending life of the present neutrality act until May 1, 1927, before midnight Saturday.

Congressional friends of Major General Johnson Hagood renewed their efforts to regain for him command of the Eighth Corps area. A senate military affairs subcommittee was named to consider advisability of a congressional investigation into reasons for his recent removal.

ALLOT FUNDS FOR FARM AID

Huge Appropriation Bill Passed by House and Given to Senate

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—A near-record $161,863,147 agricultural appropriation bill for 1936-37 was passed by the house and sent to the senate today, coincident with a hurried shaping by AAA officials of still-incompleted plans for administering the new farm program.

During the day, Speaker Byrns and Vice President Garner signed the $500,000,000 soil-conservation substitute for the agricultural adjustment act and rushed it to the White House for assured prompt approval.

On still another farm front, President Roosevelt, as an aftermath of his veto of the $50,000,000 seed-loan bill, today issued an executive order allocating $7,000,000 to the farm credit administration for such loans.

The executive said this money will be supplemented "from time to time by such additional allocations as may be necessary"—but with the stipulation that funds for this purpose not exceed $30,000,000 and that loans to any one borrower be limited to $200.

Nevertheless, the senate agriculture committee, disgruntled over Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the seed-loan bill, named a sub-committee to try to work out a compromise.

A party floor fight shaped up in the house, meanwhile, over the old AAA. The house agriculture committee voted to recommend tabling of a resolution by Representative Taber (R-N. Y.), asking for the names of benefit recipients of more than $2,000 and the amounts paid them.

Beloved Baritone Dies In Poverty

Naples, Italy, Feb. 28 (AP)—Four mourners only followed to the grave today the body of Antonio Scotti—beloved baritone who sang for 33 successive seasons at the Metropolitan in New York and died here in poverty.

Scotti, a bachelor, died in retirement Wednesday, but the fact became known only today.

He was 70 years old. Friends disclosed he was in straitened circumstances, asserting he had been ill for a decade although he retired only three years.

He had been living on funds supplied by the Music Lovers Foundation of New York, they said.

The veteran ended his active career of 43 years in 1933 at the Metropolitan and returned to Naples.

Restoration of Wood Alcohol Industry Urged

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—A group of house members appealed today to Secretary Morgenthau to revive the wood alcohol manufacturing industry in Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, Tennessee and Arkansas.

Representative Brown (D-Mich) said the group asked the secretary to lift 'the virtual prohibition against manufacture of wood alcohol clamped down during prohibition years when bootleggers were using it in making liquor."

He said the secretary assured the congressmen he would take the matter under consideration and report to them in a few days.

"Wood alcohol is a by-product of a low grade of hardwood," Brown said, "and a restoration of the industry would put 500 men to work in the woods of northern Michigan and Wisconsin."

Chemical plants for the manufacture of wood alcohol which would be affected by a favorable reply from the treasury are located at Newberry, Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Mancelona in Michigan and at Goodman and Phelps in Wisconsin.

Toledo Threatened As River Overflows

Toledo, O., Feb. 28 (AP)—Ice dams gave way on the Maumee river today, bringing a serious threat of floods to this city.

The ice, piled high in the stream, broke loose at Damascus bridge, 34 miles upstream from Toledo, and at Independence dam, 20 miles upstream. The river already has risen to the top of docks here and all traffic in Water street, parallel to the river, has been halted.

Vehicular and pedestrian traffic across the Ash-Consul bridges has been barred and pumps were used throughout the day in the Water street plant of the Toledo Edison Co. The coast guard cutter Corwin, docked in the river, is riding above the street level.

Guards have been posted on all bridges and orders have been issued to the naval militia to stand by for guard duty. A 13-mile ice jam extends up the river from the city.

Mrs. Pascal Loses Postal Position

Washington, Feb. 28. (AP)—Postmaster General Farley today "relieved" Mrs. Anne C. Parsal, of her position as acting postmaster at Benton Harbor, Michigan, Pending final disposition of an indictment returned against her in the federal courts.

Farley ordered Postoffice Inspector Clifton C. Garner, to take charge of the office at the close of business on Saturday.

Mrs. Parsal was indicted Thursday on charges of conspiring to solicit campaign funds from employees of the Berrian county, Michigan, welfare commission.

Farley said that his action "should not be considered as prejudicial to Mrs. Parsal with respect to the charges pending against her."

Machinegun Seen In Garbage Dump

Detroit, Feb. 28 (AP)—Police rode a garbage wagon here today, hoping to find where a garbage collecter had picked up a machine gun he found in his cargo.

The driver noticed the gun as he unloaded at a dump. Firearms experts said bullets fired from the gun will be compared with those taken from slaying victims.

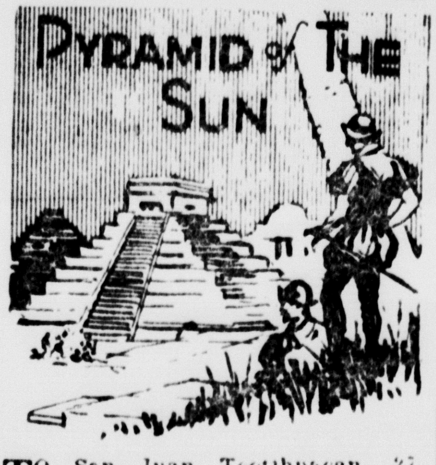
STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein



TO San Juan Teotihuacan, 27 miles east of Mexico City, go tourists to view the mysterious ruins of ancient temples and monuments, ascribed to the age of the Toltecs, from 1000 to 1400 years ago. To this same spot, about the beginning of the 16th century came the Spanish conquistadores, who tore down the paintings, statues and edifices that these ancient Indians had built.

Today, excavations are restoring the Toltec civilization around Teotihuacan. Already the mighty "Pyramid of the Sun" has been revealed, and not far distant a smaller "Pyramid of the Moon." According to legend, the Pyramid of the Sun once was a huge temple abode of the gods, and was surmounted by a gigantic statue of the Sun God, carved from a single block of porphyry and bearing a breastplate of pure gold.

The structure is shown on the three-centavo stamp of Mexico issued in 1923.

REAL BATTLE IS PREDICTED IN CONGRESS

ly press conference, following a night session with congressional leaders that ran into the morning hours.

To pay off the bonus by 1945, the year in which it was originally due, the president said, would require 120,000,000 a year in addition to statutory sinking fund requirements already budgeted.

Thus, he said, $120,000,000 annually in new taxes would be sufficient for this purpose, adding that this was a correct use of the phrase new taxes.

In conclusion, he said he would make no recommendations as to tax sources. The house ways and means committee will determine upon them, he said, probably sending tentative schedules to the treasury for estimates and then reaching a decision.

TIME DISPUTE STUDIED BY ICC

Chicago Board of Trade Will Maintain Its Present Schedue

Chicago, Feb. 28. (AP)—The petition for Chicago's inclusion in the Eastern Standard Time zone belt was in the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission for determination today as last minute adjustments to the city council's ordinance making that time effective Sunday continued.

The board of trade, under an emergency rule, revoked its previous decision to move its clock ahead an hour in conformity with the new city time and decided to continue trading at its old hours next Monday. They will be from 10:30 a. m. to 2:15 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

City officials said all municipal clocks would be turned ahead one hour at 2 a. m., March 1 under the ordinance adopted in November. Most local business houses and federal governmental offices here have decided to synchronize their hours with the advanced time.

But railroad main lines will remain on Central Standard Time and the Chicago Livestock Exchange decided it also would continue operating on the old standard.

The board of trade's action came after St. Louis and Duluth pits had voted earlier in the week to keep time with it under the new schedule. Minneapolis had refused, however, to revise its grain trading hours and Kansas City traders had protested the move.

Italian Soldiers Reach Their Goal At Amba Alaji

Rome, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Italian government said today that historic Amba Alaji, objective of the hard-driving northern army, had been captured from the Ethiopians.

Fascists celebrated the reported capture with cheers and boisterous toasts—"Viva Italia, Amba Alaji has been revenged!"

This point was the farthest south the Italians penetrated in their ill-fated punitive expedition of 1895-96. There the Ethiopians annihilated 2,000 Italian troops under Major Toselli, drove the main army back to Aduwa and administered a crushing defeat there.

Aduwa has already been "avenged" by the Fascists.

Joan Bennett Lists 9 Kinds Of Kisses

Hollywood, Feb. 28 (AP)—After seven years and "about 500 kisses" in the movies, Blonde Joan Bennett has come to the conclusion that there are nine different kinds of kisses.

"Maybe more," she said, "only I just haven't seen them, or felt them, so I don't know."

The various types of osculatory collisions, as she sees them are the "heart-in-threat," "the gotta-go-now," the "take-that-and-like-it," the "I-could-do-better," the "Oh my" or "Gee, whiz," the "I-surrender," the "no fair," and the "grand finale."

"I usually appear thoroughly mastered and overcome by the men who play opposite me," she said. "That's the heart-in-throat kind. The girl always looks overwhelmed and half-dizzy.

"Incidentally, it's the easiest of all kinds. And yet, it's impressive."

UPTURN IS DUE ON CAR SALES

Manufacturers Expect to Equal Output of 1935

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Detroit, Feb. 28 (AP)—Developments of the last few weeks have not impaired the motorcar industry's prospects of equalling this year the 4,150,000 unit output of 1935, in the opinion of most authorities in trade circles.

Production at present is somewhat in excess of retail demand and several of the factories have been accumulating finished cars. There is every indication that the assembly lines will turn out more than 1,000,000 cars and trucks during the first quarter, but as the sales executives view the situation, whatever surplus this volume may produce should be comfortably absorbed with the return of an increased volume of buying interest, probably within the next four weeks.

As long ago as last November 1 when most of the 1936 models were first shown to the public production authorities admitted the stocking of dealers before the end of the year would result in some curtailment of consumer demand during January and February. Figures just assembled indicate the decline in production to date has not been nearly as sharp as had been expected.

Used Cars Moving

In January approximately 383,000 cars and trucks were assembled and for the current month production should not fall below 336,000. Thus March output will not need to be heavy to bring the first quarter aggregate above the million-unit mark. In most quarters of the industry, however, a general upturn in assembly line activity is looked for next month.

The industry expects to have its used car inventory in better shape by the end of March. Because another large volume of older vehicles will be offered as initial payment on new car purchases with the expected revival of consumer interest at about that time, the clearing out of current accumulations has become an important item in the calculations of the distribution division.

Aside from a natural continuance of the upward movement that began many months ago, the industry is counting to no small degree upon an expansion of its export business, which showed an encouraging upward trend during 1935.

Arraignment had been set for Tuesday.

"sleep is out for me, for good."

He found solace, however, while awaiting his transfer to prison, in singing negro spirituals, hymns and "Mother Machree" in the rich, baritone voice with which he had led the singing as superintendent of the Maple Rapids Congregational Christian church.

He said singing "keeps my spirits up."

Deputies Frank Housel and Art Williams accompanied Sheriff Nestle and Blank on the journey to the prison here.

They reached the prison at 1:20 p. m. To the record clerk, Blank calmly reiterated his admission of guilt.

Tells of Denouement

He will spend two weeks in a detention cell, then he will begin routine prison life.

Sheriff Nestle said today he was skeptical from the first of Blank's explanation that his wife's clothing was ignited by a stove explosion, although no arrest was made until January 24, 19 days after the death of the young farm wife.

"What aroused my suspicion," the sheriff said, "was the statement that Mrs. Blank burned to death while seated in a chair. I felt certain that no living person would remain in a chair while afire.

"I hesitated about acting because Mrs. Blank's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Ottoman, of Jackson, were against me. But I got a letter from Mrs. Ottoman on January 14 indicating that she was changing her mind. I went to Jackson and talked to her. She gave me the very important information that her daughter had told her of intercepting letters between George and Ada Reist, and had told her to make an investigation if she should die suddenly. From that point on, the way was clear."

Newberry Is Out Of Debt Despite Welfare Burden

Newberry, Feb. 28 (Special)—In spite of depressions, unemployment, large welfare lists, and enlarged expenditures, the village of Newberry is now out of debt, according to the report published in the Newberry News of the financial condition of the water and light board. It is the community-owned water and light plant which has made the excellent record possible.

The last $5,000 bond of a total of $55,000 floated eleven years ago will be retired in June, the money needed for this last debt is now on deposit in a savings account. The fiscal year for the water and light department ended February 15th and the report as of January 31 showed a net profit over operating costs since February 16, 1935 of $11,672.33. With two weeks yet to go before the current fiscal year is completed the plant will show a net profit of, on an average, of $1,000 monthly. Added to this net profit is a debt owed to the village of $6,500 for street lighting and hydrant service. This is purely a bookkeeping item. The village council is always charged for this service but they never pretend to turn over any real money, so the department furnished this service free to the village for this public service.

The $55,000 was borrowed for the purpose of replacing an old, inefficient plant, which was costly and in bad repair. The voters accepted this bond issue gladly. $10,000 was used for water main extensions and improvements and the balance went for the purchase of the two. Diesel engines, generators and rebuilding the distribution system. An additional $5,000 was necessary before all of this work had been completed. The bonds were retired at the rate of $5,000 annually with a 5% interest rate.

The success of the commission and the satisfaction of the taxpayers at this fine showing speaks well for non-political and honest management.

Colonization Of Iceland Proposed

A movement is on foot in Denmark for a definite program of development and colonization in Iceland. The population of the island is only a little over 100,000 but it could easily sustain a million, it is believed. And as Iceland is a former crown colony of Denmark, it is a particularly good spot for Danish expansion.

Roosevelt Attempting To Regain Good Will Of Business Element

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936, Escanaba Daily Press)

Washington, Feb. 28—President Roosevelt's latest overture to the business groups whose support he has alienated in the last three years took the form of an interesting and prolonged session at the White House with the organization known as "the business advisory council of the department of commerce."

They came—about twenty-eight of them—to take lunch with Mr. Roosevelt, but he kept them for nearly three hours discussing governmental policies in a manner calculated to win their cooperation. Members of the cabinet were there and the discussion was broad enough to cover a number of current problems. It was really the first time in three years the business advisory council had had such a satisfactory conference and the first time any large group of business men had been given an opportunity for a sort of round table discussion with Mr. Roosevelt.

Only Window Dressing

Up to now, the business advisory council hasn't amounted to much more than window dressing for the new deal. It has consisted of men wha gave their time and attention to the drafting of reports which they had hoped would be useful to the administration, but a great deal of what they recommended was quietly ignored or pigeon-holed. The administration made the mistake once, moreover, of giving to the press a portion of what the business men had recommended and used this publicity to counteract the idea that the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was truly representative of business thought in America.

Then came the resignations. Every important business man on the council found himself besieged by indignant business men everywhere to resign and not permit his name to be used as a tool for new deal strategy. Many of the business leaders did resign. The administration tried to camouflage the occurence by announcing that a system of rotating memberships had been decided upon anyhow. Finally, some new members were appointed.

So today there is a hand-picked group. Some of them are friendly to new deal policies. Others are sincerely opposed, but have too much tact to talk about it for publication. As a matter of fact, they reason that it's better to go along with the new council in the hope that possibly it can be made a useful instrumentality for the expression of business sentiment.

So far as the White House is concerned, it would prefer that the business men did no talking. In fact, except for a routine announcement, nothing was given out this time. The list of subjects discussed, however, was impressive. Appropriate legislation concerning the merchant marine, problems arising out of the payroll tax law, reciprocal trade agreements, and "government cooperation in the relocation of industries" were the most important, unless the "need for the creation of a national economic council" can be considered as of tangible interest.

Has Personal Magnetism

Members of the Roper council who had not had an opportunity of talking with Mr. Roosevelt appeared very much taken by his cordial manner and the charm of his personality. There can be no dispute about Mr. Roosevelt's personal magnetism. It has been, and can be, very effective. But, as one member expressed it, the trouble is that now, after three years, things are being done that should have been done at the start of the Roosevelt administration. Nevertheless, he believed it was the duty of business men to confer and consult whenever called to the White House.

The impressions of some of the former members of the council are not so enthusiastic. They indicate that the council has before had these spurts of enthusiasm, but that they evaporated because Mr. Roosevelt does not see fit to keep them going. His speeches denouncing business men and stirring up class warfare have been taken more seriously than his informal comments at conferences with business leaders.

From a political point of view, the luncheon conference of Thursday at the White House was very important. It was an outward manifestation of the concern the administration is beginning to feel over the loss of millions of conservative votes. The business advisory council has heretofore been known as the Roper council, largely because Secretary Roper organized it, in the first place, and has been trying to keep business men in line notwithstanding the sharp attacks on them from the White House artillery. The business men like Mr. Roper, but most of them feel he doesn't have much influence with the president alongside Messrs. Tugwell, Ickes, and Hopkins, who are really the persons who have shaped administration policies in the past.

If the new move means that Mr. Roosevelt is really going to pay some attention to men like Secretary Roper and to a group of business men, even though most of them are not really business leaders, there is significance aplenty in the step. It may be that the long-expected turn toward the right will finally materialize, if only in time to recapture some of the conservatives who have been driven off the reservation by attacks on their integrity, their ethics, their motives and their alleged cupidity.

Urges Pulpwood Growing

CONGRESSMAN ALBERT J. ENGEL has proposed that the government use its public lands for the growing of pulpwood to supply cheaper newsprint.

While it is quite generally recognized that newsprint prices are reasonably low, in fact too low to suit the American manufacturers who have been complaining for years of Canadian competition, the growing of more pulpwood in this country has real possibilities because of the increasing number of uses for paper products.

The volume of forest products traffic in the Upper Peninsula, for instance, is being well sustained due to the increase in the movement of pulpwood in recent years. Pulpwood goes into the making of newsprint, wallpaper, towels, luncheon sets, doilies, napkins, dishes and many other paper products.

The Press agrees with Congressman Engel that there is a splendid opportunity for the reforesting of idle lands in Michigan with pulpwoods, particularly spruce, balsam and jackpine. America should remain self-sustaining to some extent with regard to its paper industry for if the time would ever arrive when this country's paper industry would go out of existence, foreign producers would exact a pretty price for their products.

Canadian competition, at the present time, threatens to do this every thing in the newsprint field. American mills, including the one at Groos, are gradually shifting over to the manufacture of other classes of paper due to the fact that they are unable to make a reasonable profit on newsprint.

Township Roads Out

ON APRIL 1, the township road system in Michigan will be a relic of the bygone era.

The five-year program for the absorption of township roads into the county system under the provisions of the McNitt Act comes to an end April 1. With the passing out of the township road system will also depart that important figure in township politics for many years past—the township highway commissioner.

When the township road system is abolished there will be 77,619 miles of county roads in the state. This represents an increase of 60,317 miles over the mileage in 1931 when the county road commissions had jurisdiction over only 17,301 miles of highway.

The depression brought a death certificate for the township road system. Property values slumped and the township road became a tax burden, which the people could not stand. Cognizant of the conditions brought about by the depression, the 1931 legislature enacted the McNitt law to absorb township roads by 1936, taking over 20 per cent of the mileage each year.

The McNitt law provides for compensating the county road commission for the increased responsibility. The allocation of state funds which started at $2,000,000 in 1932 has been increased every year by $500,000. In the future, the McNitt Law aid to the counties will total $4,000,000 annually and will be distributed on the basis of mileage.

There is one fly in the ointment for the Northern Michigan "snow belt" counties, however. No adjustment was made for the severe snow conditions of the northern part of the state, Keweenaw county receiving no more than the southern tier of counties near the Indiana border. It is expected that the next legislature will give due consideration to this discrepancy, however.

Punish The Guilty

IT IS a shocking fault, which amounts to a failure of the American machinery of justice that we habitually do not punish the guilty.

Every day hundreds of people are killed by automobiles, many of them murdered by drunken drivers.

There are plenty of laws against recvless driving, and criminal laws against drunken driving.

But they are not enforced. The guilty are not punished.

When conditions become intolerable, speed limits are reduced to the impossible point and various restraints, restrictions, and harassments are imposed upon innocent automobilists, but nobody seriously considers punishing those actually guilty.

Among the criminal classes, the guilty are seldom punished.

Authentic figures seem to show that not more than one-half of the criminals inferentially guilty are arrested; and that not more than one-half of those arrested are indicted; and not more than one-half of those indicted are convicted; and not more than one-half of those convicted serve their full terms.

Most of those convicted escape punishment by pardon or parole, and go back to repeat their crimes.

Dust Will Fly

MOST of the excitement in this year's presidential primary campaign will take place on the Republican side of the house. But it begins to appear that California, at least, will have a rip-snorting Democratic primary as well, and the cause thereof is that mild-mannered believer in Utopia, Upton Sinclair.

It is an odd situation that is shaping up in California. Two factions in that state's Democratic party are contending for the leadership—the Sinclair and McAdoo factions. And the odd thing about it is that each group professes a sincere and earnest devotion to President Roosevelt. The scalps they are after are each other's, not the administration's.

How the fight will turn out and in what sort of shape it will leave the party for the November election, cannot yet be foreseen. But it is obvious that in this one state, if in no other, the Democratic primary will be the one that provokes most of the oratory and the hair-pulling.

Severe Example

DEATH at the hands of a firing squad was decreed by a Soviet court for a hit-and-run admittedly drunken motorist who smashed into a farm wagon, killing a horse and injuring three persons.

On past occasions the Soviet courts have handed down stiff sentences, but none has reached the severity of this last. One can well agree it was too harsh.

But, at the same time, one must admit the Soviets have touched the key to the whole problem of drunken and careless driving—that is, that the offense is serious enough to deserve a heavy penalty.

There is no greater traffic hazard today than hit-and-run, intoxicated drivers. And we have such drivers largely because they hold no fear of the consequences of their acts.

SELF-DEFEATING ATTACKS

(New York Times)

TWO men of the Medici family, it is said, once flew upon an enemy in such a blind fury of assassinating rage that in the act they stabbed themselves. Something like that seems to be happening to violent assailants of President Roosevelt. It is on their bodies, not his, that one looks for the resulting wounds. Everybody must have noticed how wthe tone of railing accusation against the President has been rising in the past few days. Its higth note has been struck by Mr. Mencken in his article published in The American Mercury. This is no new role for him. For years he has played the part of a modern Shimei sitting by the roadside and cursing passersby—especially when they happen to be Presidents of the United States. His picturesque epithets and felicitous verbal inventions have been applied successively to Harding, Coolidge and Hoover. Why should Mr. Roosevelt think that he could escape being pelted by them? It will be said that no one now takes Mr. Mencken's diatribes at all seriously. But this one has a serious aspect. It not only treats the Presidency with gross disrespect but reduces this kind of personal attack upon Mr. Roosevelt to the absurd.

It is undeniably absurd to charge him with hypocrisy and sham and cynicism. This is to attribute motives where only facts should be called in question and judged. Franklin Roosevelt was bors and bred a conservative, one might almost say an aristocrat. To suppose that for the most sordid political objects he would turn against his own class and set other and larger but more ignorant classes against it is too hard for any ordinary mind. The men who assert it cannot really believe it. They certainly cannot make the mass of American people believe it. If we are to be guided in politics by the ascription of personal motives, speakers and writers who virulently attack the President cannot fail to have their own motives brought under scrutiny. Hard and savage words seldom harm the public men at whom they are hurled. The harm they do is to the good taste and reputation of the men who utter them.

All this is not to say that the Roosevelt Administration is not open to attack. It is vulnerable at several points. It has made mistakes both in acts and in the choice of advisers. Some unfortunate phrases have fallen from the lips of the President himself. Not all of his policies have succeeded as he had hoped and confidently predicted. There is, in fact, ample material in the record of the Administration for criticism, for searching analysis, for the frankest political discussion. But there is no reason why this should not be gentlemanly. The Presidential election has early engendered this year a great deal seasoned politicians who prophesy that it is going to be one of the "dirtiest campaigns that this country has ever known." Let' it be understood, however, that those who throw the dirt will be seen to have a great deal of it sticking to their own clothes.

We make no plea for Presidential immunity. Our Presidents have always had to face rough political satire and strong adjectives. They have taken this as a part of the free and easy ways of our democracy. They have set up no claim of the right to indict their fellow-citizens for lese-majeste. Perhaps they have remained firm in the conviction that extravagant attacks and displays of personal animosity will only strengthen them with thinking people. It is much to be hoped, however, that we shall not suffer the excess of political Billingsgate which now seems to threaten us this year. It is, in fact, neither in good judgment nor in public effect anything like so successful with the people as is solid argument and justified warning based upon the facts and submitted to public opinion with the gravity and decency which befit our great coming national assize.

BOTH RIGHT AND WRONG

(Lynchburg News)

SENATOR BORAH'S declaration that "the favorite son proposition is a sham and a deception" is partly true and partly false. It is a sham and Borah was not the first to find it out, but it is not a deception. It deceives no one. Everybody knows that a favorite son delegation goes to a convention instructed for a notable of that State because of the faint hope that something will happen to give their candidate a chance and sometimes for no other reason than to pay a compliment, deserved or undeserved, to a distinguished citizen. But usually the purpose is to prevent that delegation from being instructed for any candidate and to give it a trading value in the convention. It is, to speak in the parlance of the day, very often a racket, but it isn't a deception.

ADEQUATE FOR WHAT?

(Kansas City Star)

WITH the fading of any hope at the second London Naval Conference for another international agreement restricting sea armaments, the future construction policy of the United States Navy will present a new problem—or, rather, an old problem in an aggravated form. When the current treaties expire on Dec. 31, for the first time in fourteen years this country almost certainly will be free from a legal point of view to build as many warships as it likes, without regard to their total tonnage. The question immediately arises as to how large a navy we shall wish to maintain, after the quota limitations are removed.

The answer, of course, might appear obvious. For years political orators and party platforms alike have talked comfortably about an "adequate navy." But that term means nothing without a practical definition of what constitutes adequacy in an American navy. And no one in authority has ever supplied the General Naval Board with such a definition. As one of the admirals pointed out a few years ago, our party platforms have studiously avoided saying adequate to what.

Physicians say people live longer nowadays. In fact, anyone can expect a long life who hasn't a weak hear and is dealt a perfect card hand.

Your Nation's Affairs

BY T. N. CARVER
Professor Emeritus, Harvard University

Carver

About 450 B. C. the Roman people were complaining that they were expected to obey laws which they did not know and had no way of finding out. They demanded, therefore, that the laws should be published.

In response to this demand, the Twelve Tables were published. It is called the first Roman Code, and is regarded as one of the great land marks in the long road from the government of rulers and magistrates to the government of law; from a condition where one's fate depended upon the opinion or even the whim of a magistrate which no one could foretell, to a condition under which one's fate depended upon the opinion or even the whim of a magistrate which no one could foretell, to a condition under which one's fate depended upon his observance of laws which were known, which he could understand, and which magistrates themselves were required to observe in their decisions.

A government of law, definite, concise law, which every subject can understand and therefore intelligently obey, is one of the great blessings of civilization. Under such conditions, every citizen has it within his power to avoid penalties. If he disobeys a law he does it knowingly and at his peril. He brings the punishment on himself. Under these conditions his relation to the law of the land is somewhat like his relation to a law of nature, which operates impersonally. No one accuses the laws of nature of being tyrannical, though they do bring penalties, and one breaks them at his peril.

We have not yet reached the goal of this line of progress from the rule of magistrates to the rule of law, though we have, for a long time, been moving in the right direction. So long as we are moving in the right direction, there is hope, even though we may grow impatient over the slow rate of progress.

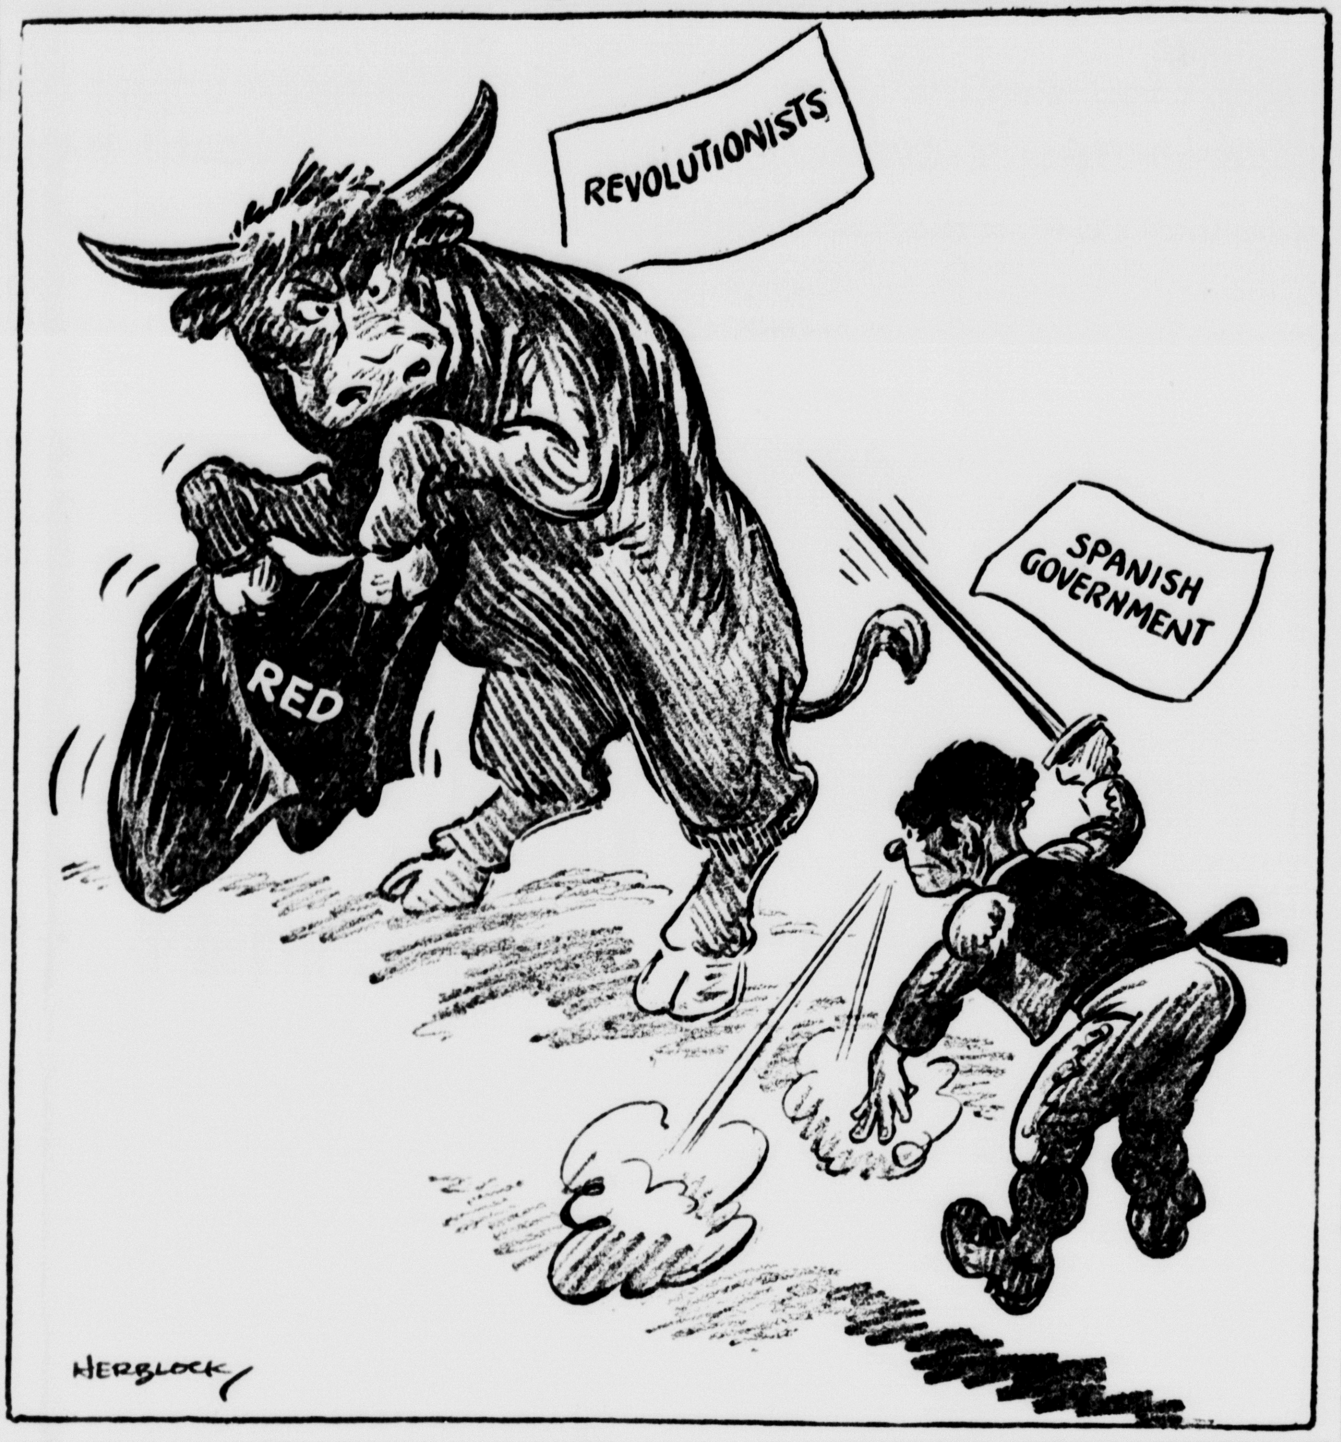
When, however, we turn backward and move in the wrong direction, away from the rule of law toward the rule of magistrates and administrators, there is reason for genuine alarm. The reason for alarm is not lessened but rather increased, when the reversal of direction is labelled "progress," and the leaders of the retrogression proclaim themselves as "progressives."

We are now actually in such a retrograde movement. The sheer multiplication of new laws, rules, and regulations makes it impossible for any citizen to know what the laws are. He can not possibly avoid penalties except by loing nothing, because he can not possibly find out what rules or regulations he may be breaking if he starts to do anything. Even the officers of government themselves do not know and can not find out all the laws which they are supposed to enforce. The result is that administrators and enforcement officers have to make their own rules and enforce them.

To justify this, there has come from a high administrator, a significant amendment to the old formula that we are now living under a government of law. The new amendment makes it read: "We are now living under a government of law and administration." One might add that even administrators do not always know what it is they are to administer.

Is it any wonder that business is slow in recuperating? Our scientists and engineers can find out enough about the laws of nature to proceed with some degree of confidence. But only Omniscience can find out enough about the laws of administration to enable business to proceed with confidence.

Something New All the Time



The Literary Guidepost

BY JOHN SELBY

"THE WAY OF A TRANSGRESSOR," by Negley Farson; (Harcourt Brace).

LET us set at rest a number of suspicions which may rise up in connection with Negley Farson's "The Way of a Transgressor." It is not a kiss and tell book, although some of Mr. Farson's amorous adventures are touched upon. It is not a grownup Rollo book, in which the author invites adventure in order to hurry home and write it up.

It is merely the record of life up to date for a man who was born with the itch to keep moving, with a background which encouraged (perhaps engendered) the itch, and with the ability to take what came. The record runs to 602 pages, and because Mr. Farson can write as well as he adventures, many of his readers will be sorry to turn the last page.

The book begins in New Jersey, with the young Farson living in his grandfather's house—General Negley of Civil war note was the grandfather. The grandfather is vivid, the three Negro servants whom his grandfather kept by not paying them are vivid—several others are not. But the story of a New Jersey boyhood is one of the best things in the book.

Later the young man did all the things college men do, plus a few rather original stunts. He gave up business in New York for business in Manchester, and gave that up to go to Russia. There he sold munitions after a fashion, met John Reed and others, and when the revolution cashed him in left for the British flying corps in Egypt. Followed a crash and much time in hospital.

Followed also a period selling trucks (lots of trucks) in Chicago, a period as literary beachcomber in British Columbia, and more than a decade of wandering from India to Ireland as a newspaper correspondent. We may not have the order of things quite right, but from the list anybody can see the possibilities. Personally, we should not have cared much about these possibilities had Mr. Farson tried to make them collect around some Lesson or prove some Doctrine. And if the transgressions mentioned in the title were enormities, the tone of the book might be wrong. This is, as was mentioned before, merely the story of a man on the move. Which is enough.

New York Column

NEW YORK—The story doesn't change much on the Bowery. Since the days of its opulence, it has been a hellish district of filth and noise, and ragged, scurvy old starvelings, and 15-cent lunches and nickel whiskies. But yesterday a little prowling revealed a few changes.

For years the section has been populated by floaters, wanderers from all parts of the earth attracted to the place by "25c Rooms — All Improvements." They never stayed long. Perennial transients, they moved off in a day or so.

But now the bartenders tell me there is a change. They are settling a little more now, living in the municipal lodging houses, getting a trifling from the relief bureau, and living better than they have for years.

At the municipal lodging houses, they get a bed, a bath, clean clothes, breakfast and dinner. They can go to the police stations at noon and get free coffee and doughnuts; and the relief money keeps them going. So for the first time they are settling . . . or so goes the theory.

AND with relief for the derelicts, the Bowery's famous "Mr. Zero" has padlocked his Old Ducks and Lame Bucks club.

The sign, Lift Up Your Heart, is still above the door in Pell street, but the door is boarded up. I hope he has not vanished from the section, though my inquiries on his whereabouts were fruitless.

I have written of this lovable old fellow before. His club cared for the Bowery's oldest and lamest wanderers. If you were past 60 or lame and came to his door seeking aid, you were greeted like a triumphant king. A poor man, he served his skeletons tea and toast in the afternoon, and conducted noble meetings each afternoon in the highest parliamentary style.

Mr. Zero, whose real name is Aldous Ledoux, cared for the poor long before our governments got around to it. He was a brilliant man, a former member of the United States diplomatic staff. I hope he has not vanished like so many of the Bowery's distinguished characters.

IN appearance, Chinatown has not changed much in recent years. Its devious narrow streets may have a little more neon tubing in them and a few more barber shops, but outwardly it is practically the same.

Inside it is another story. The old bitterness between the factions which led to the exaggerated tong wars has simmered away. By the rule of the survival of the fittest, the factions have been cut down to two: the On Liang and the Hip Sing. These are commercial factions which fight for the business of the community.

There are two main streets in the section: Pell and Mott. The On Liang stores are on Mott, the Hip Sings on Pell. But the cops will tell you it's a pretty dull section. They haven't had a really good tong war since the 1920's.

It is not generally recognized that the bulk of social legislation in Great Britain has been the work of conservatives.

SONS OF THE APES

Humanity's proud of its civilization,
The progress we've made from our primitive state,
The sons of the apes the personification,
Or so we imagine, of all that is great.
We talk of the value of regimentation,
We think as a species, we travel in herds,
Forgetting that so did the first generation,
According to anthropological birds.

Humanity's fond of tintinabulation,
It moans with its music and calls it a croon,
And yet, quite in spite of all tergiversation,
It's simply the wail of old Father Baboon.
Though some may deny our deterioration,
Our simian ancestry even may doubt,
Each day we complete the identification
Of characteristics we cannot rub out.

Humanity's proud, but I lose my efflation
Before I have traveled a street very far:
I find the pedestrian's predestination
Is largely determined by somebody's car.
Our ancestors leaped to some leafy location,
Their nimbleness splendid, their jumping superb,
And we spend our lives in the same occupation—
Not leaping the branches, but pavement to curb.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

Paul Mallon

Washington, Feb. 28.—If there is anything you do not understand about Washington developments of the day, just consider that this is a campaign year. Nine times out of ten that will give you the right answer. Every four years the primary problem of government is the election, but this year the problem is developing more priority and primitivity than usual.

It is the motivating power which animates all.

—OPPORTUNITY—

You will never find a more evenly balanced example than the inside events leading up to President's yes-and-no veto of the seed loan bill.

The White House spread the word among congressional leaders several days before that Mr. Roosevelt was going to crack down on such expenditures. Not only would he veto the $50,000,000 idea, but he would use the bill to prombote the economizing line upon which he has been quietly working, it was a good opportunity because even the congressional leaders last year thought the seed loan policy was so bad that they promised it would never happen again. It puts the government in the very uneconomical position of handing seeds to the farmers with one hand while also paying him to curtain his production with the other.

—COMPROMISE—

Soon there came to the White House on a trot no less a respected political authority than Senate Leader Robinson. No one knows exactly what he told the President, but everyone knows he comes from a region where seed loans are appreciated by a lot of people. These people just must have their seeds no matter who had said what, etc., etc.

But Mr. Roosevelt had already told congress he would not sign any extra-budgetary bills which did not carry taxes for raising the money. What about that?

Shrewd and capable Mr. Robinson figured that one out fast. He worked out a compromise whereby he would get his seeds and Mr. Roosevelt his budget. The President could veto the $50,000,000 bill, and then spend whatever money was necessary for seed loans out of left-overs from the 1935 appropriations. That was done. Even a president cannot do what he would like to in a campaign year.

—BACK-FIRE—

The technical inner aspects of General Hagood's removal have the same political background, but developed an entirely different twist.

A certain well known anti-new deal promotion agency was itching to use Hagood's reference to WPA "stage money" at the time it was made. The agency decided not to on the ground that it would not have been effective. It was file daway for future reference.

It did not rest long in the file before Hagood was removed from command. That made it entirely different material from a publicity standpoint. The free speech angle alone lifted it out of the realm of minor misdemeanors. Everyone able to read has now heard about it.

Thus, whatever the merits of the disciplinary action, it became a major publicity blunder. Even new deal publicity men are now bemoaning it as such in private. They are wondering who was responsible. They probably never will find out.

—CONSULTATIONS—

Mr. Roosevelt has been having unadvertised political conferences during the past few weeks. Many a legislator and prominent citizen who comes into the executive mansion on other business is asked to tarry for political consultation. When these visitors emerge, they announce the prime object of their business, but not the political aftermath.

A recent example was Senator Wheeler. He had a long talk with the chief executive, and published reports said that railroad legislation was discussed. It was, but that was only one-tenth of it.

Most of the legislators who have been called in for these sub-rosa political consultations have been westerners.

—PREPAREDNESS—

Britain has a way of keeping her military secrets secret, but one has slipped across the seas via diplomatic channels.

If you happened to be on the qual at Alexandria, Egypt, these days, you would see proof of it in the harbor. Extensive dredging operations are under way.

It was not revealed at the time, but when Britain sent its warships into Alexandria at the height of the Italian tension, it was found the harbor would not hold them. The overflow had to be dispatched to Haifa.

Also there was no reserve ammunition available at Alexandria then for the sixteen-inch guns of Britain's mightiest dreadnaughts, the Rodney and Nelson. If those two ships had used the ammunition they carried, they would have been at the mercy of the Italian fleet. That situation also has been remedied.

—ASIDE—

A western adviser to Mr. Roosevelt has told his colleagues in the senatorial cloakroom that the president should take a four-year rest and run again in 1940. His novel argument is that whoever tries to bring order out of the present political situation will dig a grave for himself in history and elsewhere.

The novelty purveyor has not, however, suggested that to Mr. Roosevelt. There is no reason to believe he will.

In that in-and-out driver who bothers us every morning, Uncle Sam passed up a swell prospect for his Olympics slalom team.

"Tigers attack man at Detroit circus." It seems a bit unfair, if the impire was minding his own business.

FARM PLANNING IDEAS STUDIED

Delta County Committee Appointed to Work Out Details

A working committee of three farmers and the county agricultural agent has been chosen to study Delta county's farm problems in a county agricultural planning project. On the committee are: county agent E. A. Wenner, Joe Stefl, Cornell; Clarence Anderson, Bark River; and Rudolph Dahlberg, Bark River.

The duty of the committee will be to determine what the best program will be to gain maximum production from Delta county farms, using the latest methods and considering national and local farm and market conditions. A general planting committee previously appointed included, in addition to the above, the following members: Tom Gander, C. P. Titus, W. J. Duchaine, Tom Lynott, Escanaba; and William Van Enkevort, Ford River Switch.

Two principal questions the committee is asked to estimate are:

What will be the probable production of the various farm products in this county in 1936, assuming normal weather conditions, but without either production or marketing control programs?

What will be the probable production of the various farm products in this county in 1936, under the same assumptions as in the first question, but with farm practices adjusted to maintain soil fertility and control erosion

Long-Time Program

Answers to the questions are expected to be arrived at this winter, and in addition a beginning is expected to be made toward obtaining additional information needed in the inauguration of a long-time farm progdam. Included in the long-time farm program estimates will be the probable farm production after all land not suited to agriculture has been shifted to other uses.

The purpose of long-time adjustment programs as outlined by the department of agriculture includes:

Continued balancing of total production with market requirements so as to aid farmers in obtaining a fair share of the national income; conservation of the soil resources of the nation and the development of a sound land-use program; and decentralization and simplification of adjustment procedure.

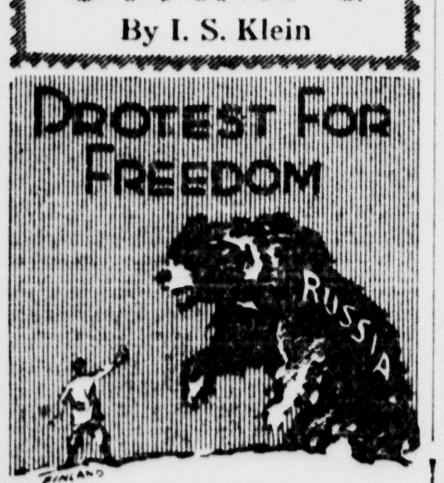
STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein



FOR nearly a century the people of Finland lived under the heavy yoke of Imperial Russia. Then toward the end of the 19th century, they began to assert themselves. They sought to cultivate their own language and to develop an individual democracy. But Russia took more secure hold and quelled the revolt.

One of the means by which the Finns sought to declare their freedom was a special Finnish postage. But in 1899 Russia suppressed that and forced the Finns to use only Russian stamps. In protest, the Finns privately issued a mourning stamp, in black, with only the arms of Finland in color. The price of this stamp, "1 penni," was printed on the back and the income from its sale was used for national propaganda.

The stamp, which is shown here was placed by patriotic Finns on the front of their letters while the regular Russian postage stamp was applied to the back. Russia stopped this, however, after a circulation of only about two days.

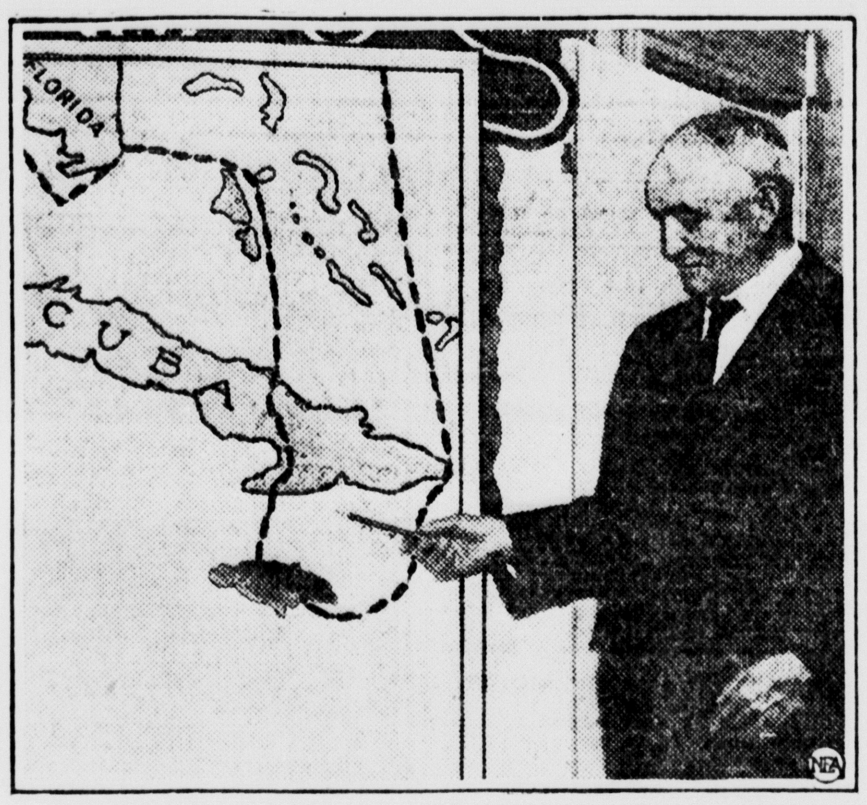
"Messenger to Garcia" Is Ill



Pointing out his perilous route, the man who won world note by carrying the famed "message to Garcia" is shown here—Col. Andrew S. Rowan, army veteran, reported failing in health in his San Francisco home. He will be 79 April 23. Rowan evaded the watchful Spaniards to reach the Cuban commander at Bayamo on May 1, 1898, with assurance from President McKinley that Garcia could count on U. S. aid. Rowan's message was verbal, so he would not be shot as a spy of documents were found on him.

Michigan, Make Ready!

XV. Fast Growing Summer Camp Movement Challenges Resort Interests.

(By B. G. Brown.)

Michigan is rapidly becoming the center of camping in America.

That, at least is the sincere opinion of Lewis C. Reimann of Ann Arbor, president of the Great Lakes Inter-Camp council, affiliated with the American Camping association. And the statement probably comes as a surprise to a large majority of Michigan citizens who have been unaware of the extent of the summer camp movement in their home state.

Growth of boys and girls summer camps throughout the state has been proceeding at a rapid rate in recent years, but all too little recognition has been given them in the commonwealth that shelters them. A great deal has been heard about New England camps and camps in other sections of the country, but so far Michigan camps generally have lacked publicity and national advertising comparable to that given outside enterprises.

Few Noted Exceptions.

With a few notable exceptions like the National Music camp at Interlochen, Michigan camps have not come before the public eye in proportion to their importance. In spite of this, the natural advantages of the state, its situation near large centers of population, its summer climate and its lakes and streams and woods have made it almost inevitable that this vacationland should become a center of camping.

"Boys and girls camps are becoming a major industry in Michigan," Reimann declares. "There are in the neighborhood of 350 camps of various types organized and conducted during the months of July and August. There is in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 invested in property and equipment by these camps, a total of between 45,000 and 50,000 boys and girls attend, and approximately $3,750,000 is spent annually in conducting these camps.

"About 5,000 men and women spend their summer conducting these camps as directors and counselors or members of the business staffs. Between 25 and 30 per cent of these boys and girls come from out of the state to spent the summer in Michigan.

"For each of the 50,000 children who go to camp, parents, relatives and friends visit the camps. For every camper in Michigan, two or three times that number of individuals are concerned in visiting the camps and spending their money for gasoline, railroad fare, hotels, meals and other expenses. For every dollar spent for a child going to camp another dollar is spent by parents and relatives on these visits to the children."

Predicts Big Increase.

Reimann further points out that children from all parts of the United States attend the camps here and, furthermore, he predicts that the number of campers will double or triple in the next five years.

A Boy Scout camp in West Michigan last summer was attended by more than 1,800 Chicago boys, who spent more than 29,- days in camp. Among their purchases, as quoted from a recent report, were 6,506 gallons of milk, 9,700 pounds of bread, 2,500 pounds of coca, 1,495 dozens of eggs, 2,600 pounds of butter, 7,500 pounds of meat and large quantities of fresh fruits, canned goods and staples, all of which were purchased in the district.

Reason for the growth of the summer camp movement everywhere is almost obvious. It is stated clearly in an article in an issue of Cosmopolitan magazine dated early last year.

"Twenty-five or thirty years ago," this article says, "summer vacation meant to boys and girls a chance for letting down discipline and regular activities, a temporary step in school work; or perhaps work on a farm. . . being out of doors all day, wearing old clothes, playing baseball, hiking . . . building huts and fires . . . cooking . . . fishing and swimming, berry picking, putting on a circus in a barn . . . sleeping out on a hay stack or under a homemade tent In the back yard.

"Today thousands of boys and girls just as brimful of physical energy and animal spirits are living in homes where such normal out-of-doors activity is impossible. And this is the reason for the development and growth of the organized summer camp."

Many Kind of Camps.

In addition to this reason, however, are others, especially the rapidly growing idea that summer vacations should not be periods of complete freedom from educational advancement. Organized training programs in which the boy or girl unconsciously embraces a strong course of instruction combined with recreational activity, are becoming quite general. President Alexander V. Ruthven of the University of Michigan is quoted as saying that "the camp is one of the most potent educational factors we have today . . . if the technic of the camp were transferred to the public schools we would have the greatest educational system we ever have seen."

Michigan summer camps run all the way from exclusive, high-priced private camps to those at which so-called underprivileged children are cared for and to which parents contribute little or nothing. Organization camps, such as Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, Girl Reserves, etc., are numerous. The National Music camp has become famous as an outstanding project camp, while attempts have been made to establish dramatic camps and other types. Many of these are for adults, including health camps, religious camps and the like.

There is ample room in the state for the development of this movement. There could be 10 times the estimated 350 and there still would be room for more. Possible sites are almost inexhaustible so far as natural resources are concerned.

But is Michigan ready for such growth? Has it the facilities to care for all the parents, relatives and friends who will be drawn to the state to visit the camps their children attend? In many sections the answer already has been given in the negative.

Nor has there yet been set up sufficient supervision on a board scale. There is almost no way as yet whereby parents desiring to send their children into Michigan can judge the standards of the camps they have in mind. Information is almost entirely lacking from disinterested sources that could give disinterested reports. In other words, Michigan is not yet equipped to lend the camping movement the encouragement it deserves.

State Regulation Urged.

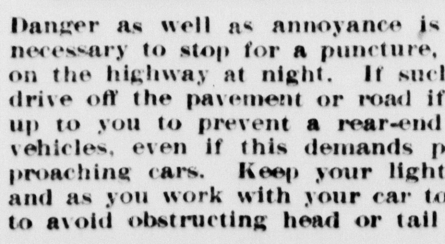
Some progress is being made by camp leaders themselves, however. In the first place, co-operation between camping organizations and recognized tourist and resort associations has been almost entirely lacking in the past. Only recently, at a meeting in Lansing between tourist and resort leaders and camping organization leaders, steps were taken toward this end.

A few weeks ago a Michigan camping commission was set up under the direction of several educational and recreational leaders, including Reimann, for the purpose of establishing minimum stardards for camps and to conduct a survey of all camps. A rating system based on location, equipment, sanitation, safety, leadership and educational programs is planned.

State inspection, licensing and rating under some system such as those discussed in previous articles also would undoubtedly strengthen the summer camp movement. For a high state rating, strictly observed, would have even more weight than that of a voluntary group.

Camps surely deserve more attention than they have been given, if only because they offer one of expanding and enriching further the tourist and resort industry to the benefit of the state as a whole.

(State parks and their relationship to Tourist and Resort interests will be discussed next.)



Tip for Night Drivers

Danger as well as annoyance is in store when it becomes necessary to stop for a puncture, blow-out, or engine trouble on the highway at night. If such a stop becomes necessary, drive off the pavement or road if the surface permits. It is up to you to prevent a rear-end collision with approaching vehicles, even if this demands personally signalling all approaching cars. Keep your lights on, both front and rear, and as you work with your car to repair the damage be sure to avoid obstructing head or tail lights.

WORK OUT PLAN FOR DUST LAYER

Federal Aid Is Assured for Michigan Road Program

Washington, Feb. 28. — After many a conference between Murray D. Van Wagoner, State Highway commissioner, and Washington officials of the Works Progress administration, a number of troublesome technicalities have been overcome and with a new ruling by WPA it is now possible for Michigan to resubmit its dust laying projects on the Federal Aid highway system totalling upwards to 10 million doldollars. The ruling was made possible by an amendment to the Emergency Relief Appropriation act introduced by Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona and passed.

Deputy commissioner, F. B. Steinbaugh of the State Highway department has been in Washington for a number of days and has brought to a successful close a six months' struggle to secure funds for work on the Federal Aid highway system out of the present 4 billion dollar grant.

These funds, will make it possible for the Michigan State Highway department to proceed with its "Get Michigan out of the dust" program on approximately 200 miles of roads. The program is one long planned and the projects were submitted last year but confusion arose out of the wording of the provisions of the act and made it impssible for Michigan to qualify for funds from WPA in the Federal Aid road system.

The new interpretation now makes it possible for the WPA to instruct Michigan to resubmit its dust laying projects with acceptance assured.

Just how many roads can and will be improved will be affected directly by the number of men available on the relief rolls of the State Works Progress administration and by the continuance of the Works Progress Administration itself.

Swedes Might Use Charcoal To Run Autos

Stockholm, Feb. 28—If anybody ever gets tough about it and claps an oil embargo on Sweden, the Swedes'll have a Notre Dame shift to beat that one. Charcoal. For charcoal-driven automobiles have become a reality in this inventive northern land. The Swedish army has bought four new charcoal-driven trucks, which they can run for only 28 ore or the equivalent of about six cents an hour.

Of course charcoal powered cars have been in use for several years, but they were such ugly looking things, with the gas generator bulging out at the side. Recent advancements have made it possible to cut the weight by 50 pe rcent and house the generator in a nice looking cabinet at the end of the car. Nor is it necessary to start on gasoline, as heretofore. That has been done away with.

And from sleepy Venice come the tidings that gondolas are now being operated on charcoal, too. How romantic that must be.

New Regulations Expected In WPA Eligibility Rules

Although the terms of the revision had not reached either the ERA or WPA regional and district offices, official indications Friday were that some change has been made in the eligibility rules of the WPA to permit certification of employables particularly after November 1, 1935, according to the statement of Andrew T. Sweet, sixth district director.

Sweet was unable to state just what the change may constitute, although he said he knew, definitely, that some revision had been decided upon at Lansing. However, the director added, it is not likely that the revision will materially affect the previous ruling which prohibited the certification as employables of persons who had not been on the relief rolls between May 1 and November 1, of last year.

"It is inadvisable," Sweet said, "to attempt to interpret what instructions may come through as a result of the revision, for we have very little information on it. We believe, however, that it will directly benefit a considerable number of persons in the sixth Michigan district by extending the eligibility privileges."

There are ample WPA funds in the district to provide for all certified employable through the first work period, or until March 15, Sweet said. He has received no official assurances on allotments after that date. Meanwhile, new projects are being received daily from various communities in the district, in addition to requests for continued work on many jobs which, it appears, will not be completed during the first work period.

The re-organization of WPA administrative forces is now complete in all 11 counties of the sixth district, Sweet reported, the personnel today totalling only 133 as compared with the previous peak of 235. Meanwhile, also, the director added, there has been a considerable reduction in the routine demanded of the clerical department, particularly, the preparation of reports, etc., having been materially simplified in the new setup.

CONLON FAVORS BRIDGE

Newberry (Special) — The Straits Bridge will be built if the people of the Upper Peninsula want it and work for it, was the message of former senator Ernest T. Conlon, assistant attorney general, former senator and former city manager of Grand Ripids, in a talk before a luncheon meeting of the Newberry Lions Club in the dining room of the Newberry hotel on Wednesday noon. Mr. Conlon believes that Newberry will benefit by the construction of the bridge as much if not more than most other cities in that the way would be made for complete functioning of the Tahquamenon Falls as a tourist attraction. Many now travel around through the states west of Lake Michigan rather than risk the long wait at the Straits, Mr. Conlon reports. He pledges the support of himself, his friends, and many down state groups and newspapers, for such construction, but asks that the Upper Peninsula get more squarely behind the movement.

Mr. Conlon was in the peninsula in the interests of the sales tax. He told how the tax had grown from nothing to a million dollars which is now being turned on the first day of each month into the general treasurery of the state, or a grand total of $45,000,000.00 which will obtained from this tax this year. He pointed out that 60 cents out of each dollar which goes for the support of every branch of public service, hospitals, prisons, schools welfare relief, in the state comes from the 3 per cent sales tax, made necessary by the passing of the 15 mill amendment and the abolishment of the state real estate tax. In the necessary development of state costs during the past few years Mr. Conlon reports $33,000,000.00 of "new money" is now being distributed to the various state, county and township units and in some localities as much as 90 per cent of the school upkeep comes from this fund.

"We must not altar nor devert this fund," the former senator reports," or very serious results will follow." He was speaking of the current attempt of some interests to pass a bill returning 75 per cent of the sales tax collection to the county from which it came. Such a plan would mean that hundreds of schools would have to close their doors, that welfare would have to be discontinued in some localities, and that all governmental affairs in the whole state would suffer.

Mr. Conlon was well received by the group of about 20 business men who heard him. He was introduced by former congressman F. P. Bohn.

MRS. JAMES H. BARBER PASSES.

Mrs. James H. Barber, for 41 years a resident of Newberry, died at her home on Phelps Street at 5:30 a. m. on the morning of February 27th. Born in Kansas on January 20, 1871, Louisa Jane Hoyt came to Michigan with her family when she was a young girl. She was married to James H. Barber in Big Rapids 44 years ago, the family moving soon to Newberry where Mr. Barber has been engaged in the dray business. For the past several years he has been agent for the Standard Oil Company.

To the couple has been born six children, five of whom lived to grow up and all making their home in Newberry. Ethel is Mrs. Leo Miller, Earl, James Jr., Frank and Miss Rilla, all at their mother's bedside at her passing. There are three grand children.

The funeral plans are not yet completed but it is believed that the funeral will be held on Sunday, March 1st. Mrs. Barber leaves two brothers and six sisters in various parts of the United States, all of them too aged to be able to come.

This is the third time this winter that death has come to the Barber family. A brother of James H., John Barber, was killed by the village pet deer late in November of this year, and another brother, Frederick, died on February 24th in Gould City.

Mrs. Barber has been seriously ill for more than a year of a liver ailment. In December she was taken to Ann Arbor but nothing could be done to her. She has been confined to her home since last autumn and her death has been expected at any time for the past several weeks. The family have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Harvard Chemist Cites Beer Value

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 28—When you consume two glasses of beer, says Dr. E. H. Lundin, of Harvard Chemical Schol, you obtain food value equal to an average portion of lean beef, or of codfish, or to two slices of bread, or a baked potato, one one and a half eggs, or a glass of milk.

Making known the results of his investigations into the food value of beer, Dr. Lundin says twelve ounces of beer—the average capacity of a retail container—have food value which equals any of the following articles: 3.7 ounces of lean beef; 8.8 ounces of codfish; 1.8 ounces of bread; 4.7 ounces of potato; one and one-half eggs; 6.4 ounces of milk.

While this revelation of the food value of beer may be surprising to the average American, beer long ago has been recognized in Europe as a food product and is included as such in the daily diet of thousands of families in England, Germany and other countries, just as tea, coffee and milk are consumed in the United States.

The comparison of the value of beer with that of other foods is on the basis of calorific values, which is the only satisfactory manner in which different food substances can be compared by means of figures. For example, the calorific value of beer is about two-thirds that of milk.

The average number of employes in service on Class 1 railroads last year was 1,007,702, the first increase, 36,506, in four years.

Theatres

The mechanics as well as the spirit of the radio amateur programs come in for some good-natured spoofing in the new Paramount screen farce, "Millions in the Air," which opened yesterday at the Delft Theatre.

Most of the action in this sprightly film takes place in a radio studio, a duplicate of Radio City's largest broadcasting theatre, and the villain of the story is Ol' Debbil Gong.

The clanging of this sinister object, of its silence, knits together a series of entertaining events that otherwise would be episodic, and serves as background for an appealing romance with Wendy Barie and John Howard as the principals.

Sylvia Sidney reaches the top of her form as a dramatic actress in her latest starring vehicle, "May Burns, Fugitive", a gripping, romantic drama of an innocent girl hunted by the law, which also opened at the Delft Theatre yesterday.

An emotional revelation of a girl's tragic experiences, Miss Sidney's histrionic talents are given full reign in a characterization that justifies her ability for full dramatic power. Caught in a web of circumstantial evidence, an innocent victim of circumstances, her portayal of "Mary Burns" is sympathetic, sincere and distinguished.

"Yes, indeed," says our Marian Martin, "popular pattern fashions can be varied to suit your own needs, so that you'll always look individual as well as smart!" She invites you to prove this for yourself by running up this pert little shirtmaker style frock. Those graceful sleeves (cut in one with the yoke for easier making!) you'd prefer to have them long? Fine—the pattern shows how! Omit the pocket if you like. As for buttons and belt buckle—you'd get a different effect, though equally charming, if you matched them to the light background of the print instead of accenting one of its dark tones. You can go adventuring in fabrics, too, for you'll find dozens that are appropriate and inexpensive—including this novelty celanese crepe that shows the signs of the Zodiac in black and red on a white ground. Pattern H9762 comes in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric.

ALL QUALIFICATIONS

Want to be an air hostess? It probably would be easier to crash the movies. Hazel Maulsby (above), of Newark, N. J., is one of the fortunate ones chosen by United Airlines from among 2000 applicants. To get the job she had to be a trained nurse, under 25 and 5 feet 4 inches high, weigh less than 120 and have an amiable personality.

First Edition of Junior High Life Circulated

A new school paper, attractive in make-up and highly commendable in the variety of topics covered and the interesting style in which they are written has made its first appearance, "Junior High Life," edited by students of Escanaba junior high school, Class 9AA, under the supervision of Miss Lilian A. Perkins, faculty advisor.

Book reviews—Betty Logan.

Proof readers—George Gaffney, chairman; Kenneth Arntzen, Wilbert Falk, George Gaffney.

Assembling committee—Vern Johnson, chairman; Arnold Anderson, Louis Cooper, Lowell Farrell, John Pearson, Bill Thorin.

Contributing staff—Clyde Cox, Arne Erickson, John Ferrari, Mae Holzgrebe, June LaVergne, Rosemary LaCrosse, Patricia McPherson, Margaret Neumann, Aileen Olson, Iver Olson, John Pearson, Jenelle Promer, Marcella Provo, Adeline Schmelter.

The school publication is well arranged, its pages clear mimeograph, and is finished with an attractively designed cover in pamphlet form.

Births

Announcement is made of the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Ann, to Mr. and Mrs. John Kutcher, 1521 Stephenson avenue. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

YOU'RE A LUCKY BRIDE, DEAR. THINGS ARE DIFFERENT TODAY. WHEN I WAS A GIRL—

I had to scrub clothes for hours—and stand over a hot, steamy boiler trying to get the wash snowy. But today the modern wife simply soaks her wash whiter and brighter in creamy Rinso suds. That saves wear and tear on clothes—makes them last 2 or 3 times longer. As long as Rinso is made, you'll never have to worry about washboard backache. Use Rinso for dishes and all cleaning. It's wonderful in washers, too. Rinso gives thick, lasting suds—even in hardest water. It's so easy on hands.

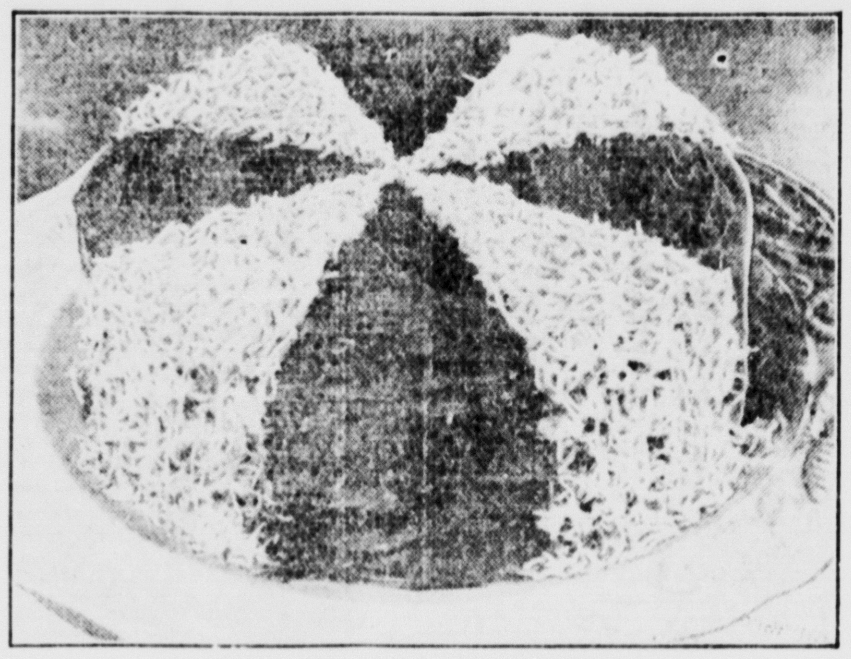
Smiles Beam 'Round and 'Round When You Bake "Windmill Cake"



Isn't it heart-warming to hear murmurs of admiration when wou bring a handsome, eye-filling cake to the table? Don't such tributes repay you royally for the time you took to decorate your cake?

And you can vary this decoration: You can frost this cake with white frosting and tint the coconut pink before you apply it; you can tint the frosting and decorate either with white or toasted coconut.

Wildmill Cake

3 cups sifted cake flour
3 tablespoons double-acting baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup butter or other shortening
1 1-2 cups sugar
1-2 cup milk
1-2 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-4 teaspoon almond extract
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with liquid, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring; fold in egg whites quickly and thoroughly. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Spread chocolate frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. While frosting is still soft, make off in eight sections. Sprinkle moist, sweetened coconut on alternating sections, beginning from top center and work out and down on sides.

To Toast Coconut: Spread coconut in thin layer in pan or baking sheet. Place in hot oven (400 degrees F.) or under broiler. Toast until delicately browned stirring fequently to prevent burning.

Baked Date Pudding

3 tablespoon fat
1 cup light brown sugar
1 cup chopped dates
2-3 cup nuts
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 egg yolks
2 tablespoons milk
3 egg whites beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
-1-4 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream fat and sugar. Add dates, nuts, salt, flour and baking powder. Add yolks and mix thoroughly. Fold in rest of ingredients. Pour into buttered baking pan. Bake 40 minutes in pan of hot water in moderately slow oven. Serve warm or cold, cut in bars.

Roast Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb

Shoulder of lamb
2 cups dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon minced celery
1 tablespoon butter
Salt
Pepper.

Have the bones removed from a square cut shoulder of lamb and the sides sewed, leaving one side open for putting in the dressing. Make a dressing of the other ingredients, stuff the shoulder, sew or skewer the open side, place the roast on a rack in an open pan, and roast in a 300 degree to 350 degrees F. oven for about two to two and one-half hours. Serve on a hot platter.

Orange Sauce

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup orange juice
1-3 cup lemon juice
1 cup water
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons butter

Mix sugar with flour, add rest of ingredients. Cook slowly and stir constantly until sauce thickens. Serve warm or cold.

Preserved Cranberries

(Delicious with fowl, fish or meat)

2 cups sugar
1½ cups water
3 cups berries

Boil sugar and water five minutes. Add berries, after careful inspection, and boil slowly until skins have burst. Pour into glass dish, chill.

Asparagus Imperial

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
4 cups cooked asparagus
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1-4 cup chopped pimientos
2-3 cup cracker crumbs
1-2 cup grated cheese

Melt butter and add flour. When blended, add milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add asparagus and seasonings. Pour into buttered, shallow baking dish and cover with crumbs mixed with cheese. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

FOR CONSTIPATION DUE TO INSUFFICIENT BULK

OUR representative will call at your home this week. He will give you a sample package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and a helpful booklet containing many delicious recipes free.

You can't realize how good ALL-BRAN muffins are until you try them yourself. This sample will make eight muffins. Just follow the recipe. Then try the other delicious recipes in the booklet. And remember, ALL-BRAN is equally tempting as a cereal, with milk or cream.

We hope that ALL-BRAN will help you in guarding the health of your family against the dangers of common constipation. One of the very real satisfactions of our business has been the thousands of thankful letters we have received from people who have benefited greatly from this product.

W. K. Kellogg
OF BATTLE CREEK

Are you serving enough "bulk" in your meals?

MILLIONS of meals served in American homes today lack the "bulk" needed for regular habits. Too often, these meals lead to common constipation, a cause of headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies generous "bulk" in mild form. Also vitamin B and iron. Scientific tests show it is a gentle, natural laxative food for normal people.

Try the sample. Either as a cereal, or in cooking. Then get the full-sized package from your grocer, so that the whole family may benefit from its use. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CHAPTER XV

The purser scratched his head when he saw that the necklace was gone. "Well," he said, "now we've got a motive for the crime — or have we? A jewel is lifted out of a locked trunk and a man is lying dead on the floor. I can't connect them." He appealed to the detective. "Here, you take the case. You've been retained by Miss Lane. I'll just look on and be the ship's officer at the inquest.

But Dirk spoke up. "It looks simple. Mannie Jackson was shot. That means two men entered the room. Suppose the pair came in together, opened the trunk, got the jewel and closed the trunk again. Maybe one of them didn't want to share the loot. He pulled a gun and shot Mannie Jackson, thus keeping the Kokimer for himself."

This theory didn't suit the detective. "Suppose," he said, "a blackmailer came in alone to look for damaging bits of evidence. Letters, as Miss Lane suggested. Then another man comes in, looking for the Kokinor diamond. He surprised the balckmailer, Mannie Jackson, and shoots him. Then he opens the trunk and takes the jewel."

"That's it!" the purser said. "But who—who was the thief."

"That's our job to find out?"

The purser said, "All right. Have you any suspects?"

"No. Unless you mean every man and woman on shipboard."

"You mean we haven't a better answer than that? It might have been any man or woman on board the ship?"

Snowshoes rubbed his chin. He said, "Mannie Jackson had a pal on board, Dutch Lenz. He might know something."

There was a knock on the door and Snowshoes opened it. Jane was standing there with Tino Rossi at her side. Jane spoke to Dirk.

"What has happened?" she asked. "When you left me I knew something was wrong."

Suddenly she saw the figure on the floor. A cry escaped her lips. "That man! I distrusted him the moment I saw him. You remember, Dirk. He followed us."

Tino said, "That was the man you struck this afternoon on deck, wasn't it?"

"Yes," Dirk replied.

"But why," Jane asked, "was he in your suite, Dirk?"

"I exchanged suites with Miss Lane yesterday."

* * *

Jane was still incredulous. She looked at Mannie Jackson and said, "When—when did it happen?"

"Between 11 o'clock and midnight."

"While Tino and I were on deck," Jane breathed slowly, looking up at the opera singer.

The deck steward knocked and entered. Snowshoes has closed the door of the bedroom, shutting out the gruesome sight. The steward advanced to the purser who had called him.

"This is the A-deck steward," he said.

Snowshoes asked, "Did you see anyone enter this suite tonight between 11 and midnight?"

"No sir. It isn't part of my duty to watch the staterooms. I notice people going by."

"Whom did you see on Deck A during the hour?"

"I must have seen a hundred. A lot of people didn't go to the cabaret. They're all just passengers to me. I didn't notice anyone in particular."

"All right," Snowshoes said. "You can go."

After he had gone Snowshoes opened the door of the bedroom again. Ken Martin, the crooner, stood staring at the body of the murdered man. Linda Bayes was behind him. She said, "Has the necklace been stolen?"

Everybody looked at her sharply. Snowshoes said. "How did you know a jewel had anything to do with this?"

Ken stiffened to defend Linda. "Look here—!" he began.

"Easy!" Snowshoes cautioned. "Let the young lady answer for herself."

"It was just a question," Linda replied. "The question anyone would ask, knowing about the value of the Kokinor diamond."

"And as for the explanation of our presence here," Ken went on, "we suspected something and followed Tino Rossi and Miss Weston to the suite. When I tried the door, it was open. So we came in."

Snowshoes asked, "Did either of you know Dutch Lenz when he owned the Tip Top Club."

A look was exchanged between Linda and Ken. "No-o," she said weakly.

Ken corroborated her denial. "Anyhow," he said, "we were singing in the ballroom and bar all evening. Didn't leave once, either of us."

The purser said, "Dutch Lenz. He's the heavy-set guy with a croped head, isn't he? I remem- now."

"I'd like to talk to Lenz," Snowshoes told the purser. "As ship's officer, will you call him in? And while we're questioning him, have his stateroom searched. Thoroughly!"

* * *

The detective was pacing off the number of steps between the bedroom door and trunk when a large woman in a dressing gown walked into the room. It was Madame Doremus.

She could not see the man on the floor of the bedroom. Madame Doremus began uncertainly. "I have the suite next door. There was so much noise in here I couldn't sleep. Who is the man who was murdered?"

Everyone jumped. Snowshoes closed the door to the bedroom, faced the woman. "Madame," he said, "there has been no murder. What makes you think there has been?"

"I couldn't go to sleep. I had just taken two tablets when I heard something that sounded like a shot, followed by a groan. I pulled the covers over my head and tried to go to sleep. Then I heard more noise and here I am."

"Are you alone in your suite?" the detective asked.

"No. I have a traveling companion, Millie. But Millie didn't awaken." Madame Doremus went on, "I'm on this cruise for a rest, but I haven't had my eyes closed since I came on board."

The doctor called from the bedroom then and suddenly the door burst open, affording a view of Mannie Jackson outstretched on the floor. Madame Doremus screamed. It was a shrill cry which brought the doctor to her side before she fainted. They put her on the lounge in the sitting room and the doctor applied restoratives.

The dowager came to with a startled cry. "It's a wonder I'm not dead," she snorted. She flounced out of the room, scorning the helpful arm the doctor offered her.

No sooner was she gone than the purser returned with Dutch Lenz.

"I don't know a thing about it," Dutch was saying. "I don't know nothing." When he saw the body on the floor he leaned over it. "It's Mannie, all right," he said then. "He was my pal. He came on this cruise to get some rest. That's all I know."

"When did you see him last?" Snowshoes asked.

Dutch thought a moment. "It was about 8 o'clock," he said, "in our stateroom. We were dolling up for the party in the ballroom. Somehow we didn't get around to going. I was in the bar most of the evening, talking to Joe. You know—the bartender."

"Where have you been since 11 o'clock?"

* * *

Dutch looked down at the body. "Is that when he stopped the bullet?" he asked. "I saw Joe at 11 o'colck. The rest of the time I was wandering around the ship. I was all around and I wasn't watching no tick-tock to explain where I'd been every minute."

The detective's voice dripped venom now. "Were you on Deck A?" he asked.

"No. I didn't come up this high."

Snowshoes said, "You're the only person on shipboard who knew Mannie. Can you tell us if he had any enemies?"

"No. He didn't know anybody on board. "Unless—suddenly he nodded at Dirk—"it was that guy. I saw him take a crack at Mannie this afternoon."

Dirk blushed, but Snowshoes waved the reference aside. "Why do you suppose your pal was in this suite?" he asked.

Dutch shrugged. "I've told you all I know. Maybe he got confused and thought this was his stateroom. Was anything stolen?"

"Would your pal's key have fitted this door?" Snowshoes said acidly. "He got in with less trouble than he had getting out. When he tried to leave the bullet stopped him. The Kokinor diamond was taken from that trunk.

Dutch grunted. "Mannie wasn't interested in trinkets," he said. "We took this trip for our health—"

Snowshoes turned to the purser. "Who had keys to Suite AA besides Miss Lane?" he asked.

The purser thought a moment. "There's one in my office," he said, "locked up. The room steward has a pass key. Then he pointed to Dirk. "You had a key!" he said. "You didn't turn in the one you had after you exchanged suites with Miss Lane."

MAKES CHANGE IN UNDERPASS

Highway Dep't Alters Plans; Contract May Be Let April 10

Preliminary arrangements are expected to be advanced sufficiently to allow letting of contracts for construction of the proposed grade separation under the Soo Line tracks at M-35 about April 10, it was learned yesterday from City Manager E. H. Waterhouse.

L. W. Millard, design engineer of the State Highway Department, met Thursday evening with the city commission and Manager Waterhouse and went over various matters in connection with the project.

Plans for use of a concrete retaining wall has been changed because of the increased cost and instead a sloping earth wall will be used on each side. This will necessitate the purchase of additional right-of-way.

The necessary right-of-way will come to between $2,500 and $3,000 and the highway department is asking the city to assume half the cost. Earlier the city had agreed to assume full responsibility for purchase of right-of-way and damage to abutting property. The cost, under the former plans, however, was not near as great as under the new setup.

Consideration of the state highway department proposal will be taken up at a meeting of the city commission next Tuesday evening.

AUTOISTS MUST HAVE LICENSES

Midnight on Saturday Is Deadline for Use of 1935 Plates

Nearly eight hundred Schoolcraft county automobiles will be barred from the highways after the first of March unless 1936 license plates or windshield half-year stickers are purchased by the owners before Saturday night, according to a statement made on Thursday by G. Leslie Bouschor, county clerk, who has charge of the license sale office here.

According to Mr. Bouschor, Saturday will positively be the last day for the use of 1935 plates. No further extensions of time can be granted by the secretary of state, according to state law. Another extension would require the approval of the state legislature which is not in session at this time. Last year the legislature was in session and granted an additional extension after the secretary of state extended the time for use of 1934 plates as much as he was legally permitted to.

About 1,000 Schoolcraft county motorists already have procured their 1936 plates or stickers, leaving some 800 who had to purchase the plates or stickers on Friday or before closing time today.

William Laux, sheriff of Schoolcraft county, and John A. Peterson, Manistique chief of police, have been given warnings to motorists that they will arrest all drivers who do not have the proper license stickers or plates beginning on Sunday, March 1.

Lee Stewart, County Farm Agent, Resigns

Moves to Manistique After 8½ Years Spent in Schoolcraft Co.

Lee Stewart, county agricultural agent of Schoolcraft county since September 20, 1927, has resigned his position here and will leave Saturday to accept a position in Escanaba with the Rural Resettlement administration, according to an announcement made Thursday.

Charles Howard, chairman of the board of supervisors to whom the letter of resignation was addressed, stated that no plans have been made to employ another agricultural agent, and it is probable that the office will be vacant for several months.

Mr. Stewart's resignation will be effective Saturday, February 29. Miss Thelma Bauers, stenographer in the farm agent's office, will probably keep the office open next week while she closes books and files and completes other details necessary before finally closing the office.

Farmers and others interested in the agricultural development of Schoolcraft county deeply regret Mr. Stewart's resignation and his departure from the county. During his eight and a half years here he has won many friends and has accomplished much splendid work in advancing agriculture in the county.

Schoolcraft county won six upper peninsula and six state potato championships during Mr. Stewart's work here. A marked advance has been made in 4-H club work, four boys winning trips to national dairy shows and three girls winning trips to the national 4-H club congress in Chicago. The organization of a 4-H Service club in 1933, composed of outstanding 4-H club boys and girls, has aided significantly in furthering 4-H club activities. In addition to this work, and the continued growth of clubs and projects, several judging and demonstration teams have represented Schoolcraft county at the annual Camp Shaw, Chatham, 4-H club rally.

During Mr. Stewart's work in the county, a fine start has been made on a program designed to bring Schoolcraft county under the recently enacted land zoning law. During his attendance at the Michigan Farmers' Week in Lansing, Mr. Stewart called on state officials and made an effort to have the soil maps of the Schoolcraft county land economic survey completed. This survey was finished by the state several years ago, but the field notes have never been fully developed into map form, which would be of invaluable aid in land zoning the county's rural area. The rate of this progressive movement, now that Mr. Stewart is leaving, is problematical.

Another movement recently launched by Mr. Stewart is a program of rural electrification. This work would have been completed this year and would have increased rural electrification from 11.2 per cent to 46 per cent.

Eradication of Bang's disease from Schoolcraft county dairy herds also was forcefully prosecuted by Mr. Stewart. One hundred and thirty-six herds, involving 1,345 animals, have been signed up to take the tests.

Nine Schoolcraft county farmers have made arrangements to grow certified potato seed next season, and there was a possibility that several more would join the program. Potato marking through the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, also has been increasingly developed during the past three years, and a winning fight has been staged against the farmer's greatest summer enemy, the common grasshopper.

Old Manistique Resident Called By Death Thursday

Word was received here Thursday of the sudden death of Mrs. Anna Christensen of this city in Chicago on Thursday morning. But meager details of Mrs. Christensen's death were mentioned in the message received here by Carl Thorberg.

Funeral services will be held at Chicago today with temporary burial at Rose Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Christensen, who was 64 years of age was the widow of James Christensen, a former city clerk who served the city for 23 years. She had made her home in Manistique for over forty years, and had a large circle of friends here. She was a member of the Ida Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. She was also a member of the woman's club of the Norwegian Danish Lutheran church.

She is survived by three sons: Harry and Albert in Chicago and Walter in Minneapolis. At the time of her death, she was at the home of her son Harry Christensen. She had been visiting with her son since before Christmas.

Inter-Club Bowling Features Elks Stag

An inter-club bowling match between Ed Busch's hand picked City league quintet of bowling stars and the best five Elks bowlers that Malcolm Nelson can assemble on the alleys will feature the Elks Saturday night stag party this evening.

The City league team lineup as announced yesterday will be: Ed Busch, Arvid Stoor, Vern Smith, Russ Brault and Chet Tyrrell. Nelson has not announced the lineup of the Elks team.

This inter-club match has forced postponement of the heralded grudge match between Isackson's McSweeneys and Kelly's Kellynskis. The grudge match will have to be rolled off later to decide the possession of Kelly's green shirt.

Tony Busch and Al Farley will reign in the kitchen where refreshments will be provided for bowlers and all other Elks. A tasty Hungarian stew holds the bright spot on the menu prepared by Tony and Al.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—Disappointment in Wall Street over reduced railroad fares and an unexpectedly low dividend by one corporation upset the entire stock market today and dragged back a late rally in industrials.

All through the day, prices gained slowly in virtually the entire list with traders taking in their stride both good and bad news. Finally, however, the adverse intelligence over-balanced board room optimism, and selling predominated.

Carrier executives have themselves been divided over the virtue of the long debated cut in passenger fares.

The second stumble came when carloadings of 586,712 cars, a reduction of 7.1 percent from the previous week, were reported for the week ended February 22. The drop was more than anticipated for this time of year.

Near the close of the session, Montgomery Ward declared a dividend of 20 cents a common share, the first since August of 1930 when 75 cents was paid.

The volume of trading was 2,473,160 shares, slightly higher than in the previous session, and the Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .2 of a point to 61.6. The downturn was softened by a rise of one point in the industrial average.

Pullman Advances

Losses in rails amounted to fractions to a point or more in such issues as Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Union Pacific.

Pullman advanced a fraction under the theory that the reduced cost of riding in a pullman car should encourage more first class travel.

The motors were carried along by early bullishness, but Cram's estimate of production this week, 64,956 units, apparently was less than hoped for although the advance from the 62,813 units of the previous week was the first in nearly two months.

Among motor shares closing lower on the day and under the peak of the session included General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, Packard and Nash.

On the other hand, numerous industrials and miscellaneous securities were higher. For the entire market, 340 stocks rose and 377 fell.

American Telephone gained nearly 2 points, and others up as much or more included Allied Chemical, American Can and International Nickel.

Other gainers were Westinghouse Electric, White Motor, American Smelting, Bethlehem Steel, National Biscuit, Kelsey Hayes, Great Western Sugar, Hamilton Watch, Schenley and Union Carbide. U. S. Steel lost ½ point.

Montgomery Ward dropped 2 1-8 to 38 1-8 and Sears edged lower. Several of the utilities receded fractions to more than a point, and the gains for the most part were limited.

In the bond market, U. S. governments were firm, and the remainder of the list was slightly mixed. The dollar was steady against leading foreign exchanges, and the yen was only a trifle lower.

Wheat closed unchanged to 5-8 of a cent a bushel lower, and corn was off 4-8 to 5-8 of a cent. Cotton advanced 5 to 30 cents a bale.

Curb Is Unsettled By Profit Taking

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—Profit taking in today's curb market unsettled a number of stocks while specialized demand lifted others.

The trading volume declined substantially on the realizing. Transfers approximated 536,000 shares against 1,020,000 yesterday.

It was noted that group movements were mixed, some oils and mines exhibiting strength while issues in the same families were backward.

Aluminum of America and Pan-American Airways got up about 2 points each at 129 and 62, respectively. Bunker Hill also gained 2½ at 72½. Newmont Mining gained 1½ at 88. Slightly improved were Cord Corp. at 6 1-8 and Gulf Oil at 84¼.

On the down side up to a point or so were Humble Oil at 69, International Petroleum at 37¼, Creole Petroleum at 30¼, Pittsburgh Plate Glass at 115 and Electric Bond & Share at 17 3-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Feb. 28—Uneasiness over possibilities of wheat crop damage southwest and west gave firmness to July and September wheat prices today, but May wheat sagged.

Eastern concentrated buying of July wheat lifted that month nearly a cent a bushel at one stage. Need of moisture in parts of domestic winter wheat territory attracted special notice. On the other hand, export business in Canadian wheat was small, and acted as a drag on May.

yesterday's finish to 5-8 lower, May 1.00 1-8 to 1.00¼, July 91 to 91 1-8, corn 3-8 to 5-8 off, May 60¼ to 60 3-8, oats 1-8 to ¼ down, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to 10 cents advance.

Falling-off in speculative buying orders caused the wheat market as a whole to recede at the last from early high points. Persistent weakness of Liverpool quotations had more or less unsettling effect. Cables said Australian wheat was being pressed for sale in England at prices well under Canadian. An opposite influence was trade sentiment that Chicago new crop deliveries had been selling at too cheap a basis compared with May, more than 9 cents a bushel difference.

Corn and oats values eased owing to lack of aggressive upturns.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to hog market upturns.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 99 3-4 to 99 7-8, 1.00½ to 1.00 5-8; July 90 3-4 to 90 7-8, 91 3-8 to 91½; September 89 7-8, 90 3-8. Corn—May 60¼, 60 3-8; July 60½, 60 5-8.

BY G. A. PHILLIPS
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—Firmness in obligations of the U. S. government enlivened an otherwise dull and slightly irregular bond market today.

In the most active dealings since details of the March 15 financing program were made public, both short and long term treasury issues were bid up 1-8 to as much as ¼ of a point, and guaranteed loans followed a similar pattern.

Home Owners Loan 2¾s established a new 1935-36 high at 101.2, up 6-32 on balance, and the 3s of 1952 gained 4-32 at 102.2, also a new high for the same period.

Fractional changes were the general rule. Active issues advancing a shade included Anaconda 4½s at 104½, Hiram Walker 4½s at 107½, New York Central 6s at 116, Wickwire Spencer 7s at 29¾, Laclede Gas 5½s at 76¼ and American aWter Works 6s at 106¼.

Losers of corresponding amounts included North American Edison 5½s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s, U. S. Rubber 5s, Penn Dixie 6s, "Katy" 5s, Atlantic Coast Line 4½s and Reading 4½s.

Recovery of small fractions to more than a point in Japanese issues was the central feature of the foreign department.

The Associated Press averages were unchanged to .1 of a point higher.

Transfers of $14,396,000, par value, compared with $15,069,000 the day before.

MONEY RATES

New York, Feb. 28—Call money, steady, 3-4 percent all day.

Prime commercial paper, 3-4 percent.

Time loans, steady; 60 days to 6 months, 1 percent offered.

Bankers' acceptances, unchanged.

Rediscount rate, New York reserve bank, 1½ percent.

THEATRES

Ken Maynard, daredevil star and king of cowboys, will be the featured attraction at the Rialto Theatre today, in his latest film, "Heir to Trouble." This new thriller relates the serio-comic adventures of a young ranger who falls heir to a gold mine, a baby—and trouble, trouble, trouble. Joan Perry, Harry Woods and Fern Emmett have the leading featured roles under the direction of Spencer Gordon Bennet.

Second Feature

"The Curtain Falls" with Henrietta Crossman is the second feature. It is a decidedly out of the ordinary story. But, essentially, it is a vehicle for Miss Crosman's limitless talents, one of the fullest, finest vehicles any star has ever enjoyed. Sarah Crabtree is a most exacting role, the longest, we are told, ever written for a woman on the stage or screen, and Miss Crosman has responded to its demands with the fullness of her talents, talents that have been developed through her fifty years in the American theatre, and talents, we might add, that have never attained such heights before.

CITY BRIEFS

Mrs. Fred Fillmore and daughter Gladys left Tuesday night for Barron, Wis., where they attended the funeral services of Mrs. Fillmore's father held there on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William King are expected to arrive from Marquette to spend the week-end visiting at the home of Mr. King's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Carlson, Kipling.

Rev. Carl Bergstrom of Norway visited yesterday with friends in Gladstone.

Leo Weingartner has resumed duties at the Standard Oil Co., after having been confined to the family home on Montana avenue for the past several days due to a throat infection.

It requires a longer time to get an airplane mechanic's license than a pilot's license. The mechanic must have had at least two years' practical experience in a shop; only 200 hours of solo time is required of a transport pilot.

Sixteen huge airliners, each accommodating 62 passengers, are now being built in Moscow, Russia, and will have escape ports in the cabins to enable occupants to clear ship quickly in case of mishap.

Ishpeming Winning Streak Halted By Newberry

INDIANS WIN BY SCORE OF 28-18

Hematites Had Won 43 Consecutive Games Before Last Night

Newberry, Mich., Feb. 28—Newberry high school cagers wrote their names in history here tonight when they stopped the phenomenal winning streak of the Ishpeming quintet, defeating the Hematites, 28 to 18. The Ishpeming string had run to 43 consecutive wins before this evening.

Some of the glory of the Indian victory, however, was lost because of the fact that the Hematites were playing without the services of Manley and Konster, two regulars, who were out because of injuries.

The first quarter furnished plenty of action for the large crowd when the two teams fought tooth and nail, each scoring nine points. The locals added three more in the second period and held the visitors scoreless. DeCook's men gained another point in the third frame when they outscored the visitors, 6-5, and made their victory secure in the final period when they scored 10 points to but four for the visitors.

Swanson led the local attack with ten points while Goodney, Ishpeming center, led his mates, scoring eight points. In a preliminary, Cooks high school defeated the local reserves, 29 to 24.

PACK RUNS INTO SOME TROUBLE

Negro's Fight With Edgren Is Declared "No Contest"

Chicago, Feb. 28 (AP)—The opening step in the campaign of Lorenzo Pack, huge Detroit negro, to earn a bout with Joe Louis, proved more of a stumble tonight when his eight round bout with Frankie Edgren, gangling Cheyenne W.yo., cowboy, was halted in the sixth round and declared "no contest."

The bout ended with a crowd of 10,162 spectators, many of whom had been roaring "no contest" since the fourth round, yelling and booing, apparently believing that Pack had been declared winner by a technical knockout.

Pack, who trundled 223 pounds into the ring, had given Edgren a solid beating all the way, scoring a knockdown for a count of nine in the second round, when Referee Norman McGarity suddenly stepped between the fighters after one minute, 37 seconds of the sixth. Although Edgren had hardly been able to keep his arms up from the third round on, Pack failed to finish him or even knock him down but once.

McGarity declared after the bout that he had warned Pack three times after the second round to let go with his punches, and had stopped the fight, when in his opinion, the Detroit negro failed to try for a knockout.

Joseph E. Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, immediately ordered the purses of both fighters held up and set Monday, March 9, the date for a hearing.

KLEIN BUSTS 'EM

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Feb. 28 (AP)—Charles "Chuck" Klein, the $110,000 "bust" of the Chicago Cubs, today served warning that he was about to do some real busting this year.

The big Hoosier boy, who "came back" in the fifth game of the world series with a home run that stretched the series into six games, belted out no less than five "homers" today in his practice of the 1936 season.

Manager Charlie Grimm was elated over Klein's showing. He has changed his style in batting, which has improved his form immensely.

Grimm said Klein definitely would start in right field when the season opened, but after that he would be strictly on his own.

Venzke's Comeback One Of Most Startling In History Of Athletics

BY JIMMY DONAHUE
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

New York—A fellow who can take a stiff punch on the chin and rise from the floor to go on and stage a winning rally is the most courageous figure in sport.

Such a gent is Gene Venzke, the Penn miler who, after eating the dust of Glenn Cunningham for three years, has cured his chronic habit of running second and soundly lambasted the barrel-chested Kansan in three indoor meets this season.

So far has Gene returned that he once again is the promising runner he was when, as a high school boy in 1932, he turned in an indoor mile mark of 4:10 that set a new stardard.

The other night during the National A. A. U. games in Madison Square Garden, the slim shadow, native of Minnesota and adopted son of Boyerstown, Pa., defeated Cunningham in the 1500-meter event, registering the world record time of 3:49.9, breaking Glenn's former standard.

Previous to that accomplishment, the Quaker comet had defeated Cunningham in the Baxter mile, clocking 4:10.2, and nosed out his arch rival in running second to Joe Mangan in the Wanamaker Mile of the Millrose meet.

* * *

Record Speaks for Itself

It has been rumored that Venzke has been going to his old high school mentor, Mike Sweeney, of Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., for pointers, having been discouraged with the progress he was making under the direction of Lawson Robertson, Penn coach and Olympic mentor. But Gene denies this, and says that Robertson is responsible for his fine showing this year.

It has been said that Cunningham's defeats by Venzke can be laid to the fact that three years of campaigning on the boards and outdoors has sapped the Kansan's system of that great energy necessary for a miler.

However, when you realize that Gene broke a record to win the N. A. A. U. 1500-meter event, and that that record was one Cunningham set at his best, you realize that this reasoning is a myth; that the lad really is better than he ever was.

The reason behind Venzke's fall following his meteoric rise in 1932 probably lies in the overstressing of his prowess. After setting an indoor mile record, he rudely settled back to earth when Cunningham defeated him in the Olympic tryouts at Palo Alto that year, and the reversal probably preyed on his otherwise calm, methodical German mind.

* * *

Lacked Will to Win

Gene vows he has forgotten those defeats by the Kansan through the last three years, and that he is out to avenge that Olympic tryout upset and win a berth on the squad this year.

Knowing him to be a determined youth, one can realize that he means what he says. He is in the best shape of his career, comparable to that period prior to his 1932 record.

Venzke has been termed a picture runner, a name fitting his style of action that is pretty to watch. He has an excellent judgment of pace, and all that he seemed to lack until the current campaign was the will to win.

Apparently he has located that foremost requirement of a distance runner.

MICHIGAN TECH DEFEATED, 6-3

Wolverine Hockey Team Beats Houghton at Ann Arbor

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 28 (AP)—The University of Michigan hockey team, fighting for an even break with Michigan Tech in a four-game series, handed the Miners a 6 to 3 drubbing tonight in the first of two week-end encounters.

The Wolverines held Tech to a goal in each period. Turning on the pressure in the second, Michigan sent its forward line of Gib James, Vic Heyliger and Johnny Fabello down ice and the trio, assisted at one point by a lone Wolverine spare, Jack Merrill, slammed in five goals in 15 minutes.

Stack, Abb and Pelto scored for Tech Heyliger tok a pass from Merrill in front of the Tech net in the final period to score the final Michigan goal.

HANK WILL REPORT

Lakeland, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—"Hank" Greenberg, lanky Detroit Tiger first baseman, has sent word he'll report to training camp March 8 regardless of whether he has signed a 1936 contract by that time.

Greenberg's wrist, broken in the second game of the world series last fall, has completely healed.

Although Manager Mickey Cochrane, Al Simmons and several other Tigers already are in camp, the outfielders and infielders will not report until March 8.

In Camp With Big Leaguers

NOT SO HOT

Pasadena, Calif., Feb. 28 (AP)—The first day of batting practice for the Chicago White Sox failed to measure up to expectations today when the hitters found the pitchers somewhat ahead of them in training.

The hurlers, particularly Jack Salveson and Italo Chelini, who played winter baseball on the coast, more than held their own against the efforts of the swingers.

NATURAL HITTER

New Orleans, Feb. 28 (AP)—Joe Becker, catcher drafted from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league, drew the attention of Manager Steve O'Neil at the Cleveland Indians' training camp today.

Eyeing Becker, who batted 370 last year, O'Neil said:

"It looks as if the kid might be good natural hitter."

KUHEL HUSTLES

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—Joe Kuhel, veteran first baseman, gets the nomination as the biggest hustler at the Washington training camp here.

With two successive poor seasons at bat behind him, Kuhel is determined to regain the hitting form that made him a slugging star with Kansas City some years ago. He's one of the first out to practice and among the last to leave.

Training camp life ended today for a half dozen rookies as Manager Bucky Harris took his pruning knife in hand for the first cut.

DODGERS OPEN CAMP

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—The Dodgers opened their training camp today with 17 batterymen—not including Van Lingle Mungo—on hand. Gordon (Babe) Phelps, the 225-pound catcher, put on the outstanding performance of the first batting drill when he belted 15 balls over the right field wall.

GROVE HAS COLD

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—While Bob "Lefty" Grove nursed a cold in his shoulder, fortunately his right one, Manager Joe Cronin drove the rest of his Boston Red Sockers through an hour's routine drill today in a light rain.

Pitcher Johnny Marcum, who settled his salary differences early this week, failed to arrive, as was expected. Cronin, however, blamed a landslide on Tennessee railroad tracks for the delay.

JUST MISSED IT

San Juan, P. R., Feb. 28 (AP)—A flange on an automobile carrying four Cincinnati Reds' baseball players broke today and they stopped the car on the edge of a cliff 800 feet high.

"It was close," said Capt. Billy Myers, Pitchers Benny Frey and Francis Wistert, and Outfielder Hub Walker as they looked at the broken wheel.

Derringer, Freitas and Nelson worked out today in preparation for pitching Saturday's game with the Cuban Almendares.

At the close of the tournament awards will be presented to the winning teams and to the school winning most games in all three classes.

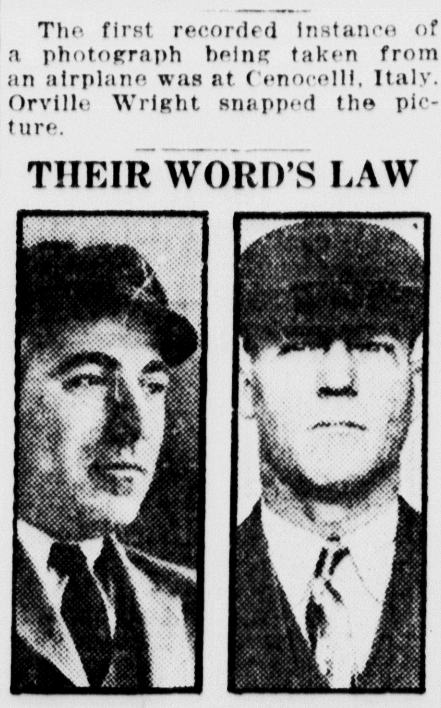
THEIR WORD'S LAW



The American league has added two new umpires for the 1936 pennant race. Steve Basil, left, comes from the Texas league, and is the first Syrian umpire to make the majors. He hails from Austin. Charles Johnston, right, served seven years in the American association before being promoted. He also is a native Texan, and played fullback for Southern Methodist university.

BUC PRESIDENT SEES PENNANT

Bill Benswanger Only Desires Fair Share of the Breaks

Pittsburgh, Feb. 28. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates shook the old brig from its moorings today and set out for the southern training camp with their leader, Bill Benswanger, sounding the word that his Corsairs will be in the National league pennant race from April to October—"if we have our share of the breaks."

The youthful president of the Pirates, in the midst of rounding up a few pitchers and catchers to embark for San Antonio, Tex., took time out to make this observation, and added:

"That goes for any club that does stay in the race—they have got to get the breaks."

Infielders and outfielders will join the team later, although the exact status of the hard-hitting Paul Waner still remained somewhat beclouded.

Benswanger, disclaiming any "hold-out" worries, said:

"We expect Paul in camp the day he is due. The Pirates haven't had but one real holdout in several years. That was Heinie Meinie in 1932, when he didn't report until May."

The vanguard moving south included Catchers Al Todd, acquired from the Phillies, and Tommy Padden; and Pitchers Bill Swift, Mace Brown and a recruit, John Wasco.

Waner has been keeping in shape over the winter playing golf in Florida. He has a contract that reputedly calls for a cut, but hasn't indicated what he intends to do with it. Pirate officials never disclose the salaries of their players, but the best guesses by the experts are that Waner got about $17,000 last year.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

Detroit has taken the front seat as makers of champions, sports records of the past 12 months indicate. The motor capital has produced Joe Louis, the unofficial heavyweight boxing champion of the world, and although the colored boy has not yet grabbed the gonfalon which stamps him as the recognized world champion, few fight fans have given the official champion, Jimmy Braddock, much of a whirl since Joe began polishing off the top notchers in the fistic sport. Moreover, Louis seems destined to hold the spotlight in boxing circles for some time to come, barring injuries which would force him out of the ring.

—O—

The Detroit Tigers captured the world baseball championship last fall, the first time in history that Detroit has won the coveted title. The Tigers won several American league titles before winning the world series in 1935. Incidentally, the Bengals are heralded as the favorite to repeat their 1935 achievements during the coming campaign, particularly with the addition of Al Simmons, the Milwaukee "Duke" who will use a lighter, but not shorter, war club in 1936 to overcome the falling off in his batting average experienced last summer.

—O—

The Michigan metropolis added to its laurels in the fall when the Detroit Lions, captured the championship of the western division of the National Professional Football league and then defeated the New York Giants, eastern champinos, to win the highest honors the professional circuit has to offer. The Lions have one of the lightest teams in the professional league, but they possessed speed and Dutch Clark, which proved more important than beef. After taking a nasty trimming from the Packers at Green Bay, the Lions showed the stuff that champions are made of by coming back to get their revenge on the Packers at Detroit, and whipped the Chicago Bears and Giants for the national title.

—O—

And now the Detroit Red Wings are leading the hockey league and appear certain to get into the playoffs for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy. The Red Wings hold a substantial lead in their division and only complete collapse can keep them out of the Stanley Cup Series. What the Detroit Pucksters will do in the important playoffs, of course, is something else again. Injuries have hampered the Red Wings considerably in recent weeks, but the Red Wings nevertheless have marched on to victories against fast stepping rivals. The Detroit team was in the final playoffs several years ago but lost.

—O—

When one city gains the success in several divisions of sport as Detroit has the past year, in fact the past several years, there must be a reason behind it all. That reason is—good support from the city fans—and good support means that Detroit is an enterprising metropolis. In professional athletics particularly, financial support in the form of good paid attendances at athletic contests is essential to success. Strong support permits the securing of outstanding and truly great players. Too, professional athletes like to perform in a live wire town, where their efforts are appreciated and rewards, in the form of cash, are returned.

DEANS' HOLDOUT THREAT SERIOUS

Cardinal Hurling Stars Ready to Desert Baseball

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT

Dallas, Feb. 28 (AP)—The "Dizzy" Dean holdout situation, began to look alarmingly genuine tonight.

The loquacious St. Louis hurler not only talked sincerely of quitting the diamond "for at least a year," but started dickering for a hand in other interests.

The local holdout group also includes brother Paul (Daffy) Dean and Frank (Pinkey) Higgins), brilliant Philadelphia Athletic third baseman.

"Dizzy," let it slip that he was to meet R. A. Slack of St. Louis, a furniture man, here tonight. Earlier he had said he probably would go in business with Slack if forced to quit baseball because of the Cardinals' failure to meet his $40,000 salary demand.

Will Compromise

"I'm willing to compromise with the Cardinals," said Dean, "but I'm waiting for them to jump first. No, I don't want to say what my compromise would be—but I'll be fair."

He said he had received only one offer from Branch Rickey, vice-president and general manager of the Cards, and that called for his last season's salary of $18,500.

"Why it's outrageous to think the league's leading pitcher shouldn't get a raise after winning 28 games," sputtered the dizzy one.

"I've always let Mr. Rickey set the salary figure and I've always signed, but this is one time they're coming around to see old D'z. I don't have to pitch for nobody. Listen. I could make that $18,500 in darn near a month in radio, barnstorming trips and the furniture business.

"And while I'd be making my money Mr. Rickey would be losing close to $250,000 because the Dean boys weren't out there winning his 50 games for him.

Brother Paul, too, wants more cash and is being stubborn about it. Higgins wants more than the $10,000 he got last year.

Manistique Elks Gird For Locals

Manistique, Mich.—It looks as though Manistique Elks will have to send over their second rate teams to Escanaba, in order to inveigle any bets on their coming engagement on next Thursday. The complete silence that has enveloped Escanaba Elks' camp is somewhat mystifying in view of the braggadocio barrage that is usually laid down by the Elkdom of the Delta county seat on such occasions.

Wise money on Escanaba's main thoroughfare has placed long odds on the visitors' ability to trim the local clan, in fact, no takers at any odds have appeared according to word that seeps through to the Manistique stronghold.

With seventy-five bowling experts to select from, Manistique's problem is one of choice rather than one of uncovering material. As a side issue, Exalted Ruler Schuster has made a challenge to the same dignitary of the Escanaba lodge for a special individual bowling match. Ott is willing to roll for cabbages or smelt, it makes no difference to Ott, he can sell either at his dispensary.

Followers of Culbertson have a little more to worry about than the bowlers, for it is said on good authority that the Escanaba folks are better bridge players than bowlers. Be that as it may, Manistique Elks have always acquitted themselves very well in years past and expect to bring home the shin blasters again this year.

MANGIN BEGINS TITLE DEFENSE

National Indoor Tennis Championship Match Starts Today

New York, Feb. 28. (AP)—Gregory Mangin begins defense of his men's national indoor tennis championship tomorrow as contenders for the women's title wait until Monday to get away from the starting line. The championships are being run on a concurrent basis for the first time.

Mangin, ranked seventh nationally and winner of the championship in 1932-33-35, will defend against a field of 64, including at least three challengers given even chances of ending his reign.

The titleholder's principal threats are Karl Schroeder, the big Swedish star who is making his American debut; Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., and Frank Bowden of the Seventh Regiment Armory, T. C., where the "co-ed" championships will be played.

The women's championship, without a defending titleholder since Jane Sharp, last year's winner ,now is a professional, attracted only 29 competitors, one of the smallest and weakest fields in years.

Four American players were placed on a preferred list, and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France was the only foreigner accorded a seeded position.

Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, wife of the Davis cup doubles player was seeded No. 1, followed by Norma Taubele, winner of the championship two years ago, and Florence Le Boutillier and Mrs. Henry C. Brunie of New York.

General Manager Bob Quinn announced that Duffy Lewis, old Red Sox outfield hero, would serve as the Bees' traveling secretary during the coming season. Pitcher Bob Smith will take over Lewis' coaching duties when not on the mound.

CLUB LEADERS SCHOOL CALLED

Meetings Will Be Held at Escanaba and at Nahma

Two conferences of Delta county 4-H club leaders have been called for the coming week by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent. The first one will be at Nahma at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday and the second at the Escanaba junior high school at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Clare Rood and Miss Marcella Meyers, assistant state club leaders, will be present at the conferences to give instruction in local leaders regarding the carrying out of clothing and handicraft projects.

Michigan In Washington

Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

"Get Michigan out of the dust" has long been an objective of the State Highway Department and this week the shaking loose of six to ten million dollars for highways in Michigan from the WPA in Washington under a new ruling will allow f unds from this source to be used for dust laying on the Federal Aid Highway system.

Michigan congressmen have centainly been busy and on their feet in both the Senate and House. Senator Couzens made the longest speech he has made this session against the bill which would exempt from tax the preferred stock of banks owned by RFC—Senator Vandenberg also voted against this bill but it passed the Senate. A similiar bill in the House was hotly contested by Congressman Fred L. Crawford and it was defeated by a narrow squeak. Congessman Hook stormed that Justice William Potter being a judge should not give partisan speeches in Michigan—Hoffman jumped up to defend Potter and a few minutes later protested against federal expenditures during the debate on the Agricultural Appropriations bill. Congressman Engel aroused argument when he attacked the second Mc Groarity bill with figures—all of this before Wednesday's session convened!

Like the elephant who never forgets, Congressman Jesse P. Wolcott remembered that Michigan had been denied its request to have a 50-cent piece struck off in commemoration of the centennial of the state when a similiar request for such a coin to mark the sesqui-centennial of the founding of Columbia, South Carlilina, was made by Congressman Fulmer.

Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace, is what is known as a "coming" man in politics. A congressman from a congressional district that can boast 16 counties—he has in a span of a few weeks been mentioned for national Democratic committeeman, a candidate for Governor and even as a candidate for Senator. And he proves he is a comer by saying "no"—with qualifications. He is smart enough to recognize that party unity in Michigan must come first and, strangely enough, a Republican Senator, Couzens, is an important key to the situation. If the Republicans stay with Couzens (who is to in sympathy with the administration to please the standpatters) Brown would not run against his too-strong friends, but if Couzens should, as has been hinted repeatedly, run on the Democratic ticket, maybe the Governship (if Frank Murphy does not run) would look attractive with Couzens as a teammate. Then, if under Horatio Abbott the party can not unite—and the independent break from the party by ex-Governor Comstock offers a new complication—he might, reluctantly, run for national committeeman. In the meantime he seems to have already won an election as the party peace dove.

Sometimes it is embarrassing to be the wife of a suggested candidate for President of the United States. The other day Mrs. Vandenberg attended a lecture on current topics—and the lecturer discussed the probable chances of various Republicans mentioned for the nomination. She heard her husband very frankly analyzed but fortunately the speaker said "Vandenberg would make a good compromise candidate". After the meeting Mrs. Vandenberg reiterated that she has said repeatedly that after a number of years in Washington, she wanted nothing less than to see her husband in the White House.

SPEED WANTED

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—There is such a thing as running and sliding to a pennant, Frankie Frisch believes, so much of today's drill in the Cardinals' spring camp centered on speed on the base paths.

Players also were coached on taking a lead off second, racing from the keystone sack to home plate on outfield hits, learning to judge by a pitcher's motions what he plans to do and whether the gesticulations of the third base coach means to stop or keep going.

"Sold the first day" said Jones. Now you try a For Sale Ad.

Seed Bootleggers Cheating Farmers

Lansing — A warning against seed bottleggers who spread a vast amount of poor seed throughout the middlewest each year, was issued today by Commissioner of Agriculture, James F. Thomson.

Thomson warns farmers to beware of any seed unless it has been tested and accurately tagged to comply with the seed law. Any seeds sold must carry an analysis tag on each bag. Usually, Thomson pointed out, untagged seed sold in this manner have been turned down by regular dealers on account of the foul stuff it carries. This will be especially true this year, the Commissioner said, as seed is not plentiful.

Almost every kind of musician has signed up to appear in the amateur hour contest. As yet, no fiddlers have entered the competition, and it is felt that the program would not be complete without them. Honorary Degree Conferred Upon Swedish Scientist

Stockholm, Feb. 28—Word has come from Germany that the Berlin Technical high school has conferred the honorary degree of Doctor on Sven A. Berglund, Swedish scientist and pioneer in sound films. Formerly a student in Berlin, he occupied himself with the photographic representation of sound waves as far back as 1906 and in 1911 exhibited an elementary talkie apparatus. Continuing to take an alert interest in the future of the films, Dr. Berglund recently lectured in Berlin on the possibilities of three-dimensional movies.

France in 1933 dedicated a monument to Georges Guynemer, famed war ace, who brought down 53 German planes during the World war. Four months later the memorial crumbled and fell apart, due to faulty construction.
